Just a Basket of Little Kittens

ELLA M. BRAIDS, M.D.
(Concluded)

Strong, healthy kittens may begin nursing at once, often before the mother has cleaned them, so, if by any chance, after a reasonable time, there is one or more lying idle while the others are busy, put him to the breast and try to assist him to get his share. After the first helping, he may be able to take care of himself, but be on the lookout. Do not resort to artificial feeding until you are convinced that it will be necessary to save the kit. A seemingly very weak kitten, fed with a dropper for several days, if cared for and kept warm by the mother, may take the breast and soon make up for lost time. Watch closely and see if the kittens all thrive. If any seem weak, try assisting the mother with one or two feedings for all. With large families they may take turns, some sleeping while others are feeding. Watch the big fellow who wants to feed all the time and the little one that is getting left.

When the dropper must be resorted to, select a good quality of milk, dilute one-half with boiled water and a few drops of lime water and a few grains of sugar. When condensed milk is used, dilute accordingly. Be sure the dropper is absolutely clean and the milk not too hot. Feed every two hours. Start with two droppers full and increase. More may be given if the kit seems to crave it.

The family is now started right, and it is safe to let Mother Nature go on with the work; and it is wonderful to see how well she understands her work.

Mother Puss must now be fed all the nourishing food she will eat; three good meals a day, with a lunch put where she will find it in the night, and a dish of warm milk the first thing in the morning; plenty of fresh water always on hand. Water that eggs have been boiled in is excellent, as it contains the required amount of lime.

See that the mother uses her pan regularly. Increased urination at this time may be expected. A complete emptying of the bowels should take place after the arrival of the family. Light food should be given till after this takes place. She will then feed easier and crave her regular food. Feed small quantities at first, till about the second or third day. A normal movement of the bowels daily should then take place: this is most important. In case of constipation, a change of diet may be all that is necessary—from meat to fish or milk. A tablespoon of warm olive oil will do the work if changing the diet does not.

I find that a dish of warm milk the first thing in the morning, with meat, fish and chicken heads cleaned and cooked with plenty of boiled water, keep the bowels and kidneys in good normal condition. The appearance of the kittens themselves will give the best evidence of the quality and quantity of the nurse. One can almost see them grow the first week. It is remarkable; but the second week is wonderful. They are crawling all 'round the basket and their voices are so strong. The third week brings more wonders; the little legs are growing strong rapidly, and they begin to notice you when you come to them, and they may even try to crawl out of the confines of home, greatly to the distress of Mother Puss, who caresses and gives good advice, but too often in vain. Hold them back till the fourth week if possible. The little legs will be stronger then.

The first feeding may take place about this time, but do not allow them to overdo. Lengthen the play time as the days go on, but do not exhibit them too often for the amusement of callers, for this is tiresome. Allow them their freedom, and feed regularly. Puss will still nurse them at least four weeks longer.

The diluted milk may be the first feeding given with a spoon; then the saucer or soup plate if the family is large. Most of the infant foods are good for kittens. I have always given the preference to Robinson's patent barley, however, as I think many of the fanciers do.

Allow the mother to nurse them as long as she will, providing the family is not so large as to cause a drain on her constitution.

See that the eyes are open wide and that they are bright. Nine days is the time given for this, but it is often a day or two later. If there are any that do not see the light of day by this time, assist nature a little. Bathe gently with absorbent cotton wet in lukewarm water or boracic acid. On the other hand, if any are open before the ninth day, protect them from the light. Watch the eyes. This is one of the most important features in raising kittens. We all want bright-eyed ones.

This basket of kittens have now reached the stage where they will be independent feeders, when the baby kits will be rompers, mischief makers, etc.

A Cat Tale

DR. MARGARET LACEY

IS birthplace was a camp in the Maine woods, near the foot of Mt. Katahdin. Perhaps some of the dark shades of the mountain got mixed with his fur, for he was as black and elusive as the shadows that lay at evening along the sides of old Katahdin.

He had a very happy babyhood. Little brother and sister kittens romped with him, and Jolly, the dog, protected him. He was fuzzy and shaped not unlike a tiny Teddy bear. So the first few weeks of his life sped by and he had no other name than "The Black Kitty."

One day in August I visited the camp in my canoe. I landed and played with the kitten family while I talked to their mistress. When I left, all my new friends went down to the dock with me. I had paddled about twenty feet from shore on my return trip, when I heard a splash, and, looking back, beheld the black kitty, worried little nose above water, and fuzzy little paws paddling hard and fast after the canoe.

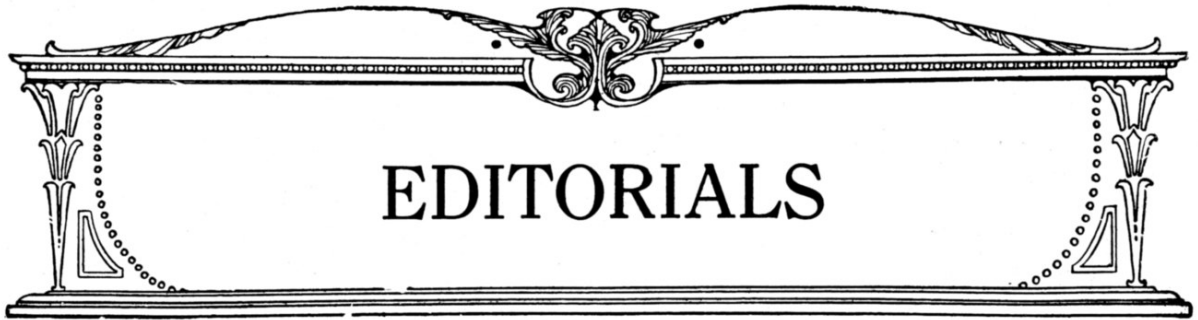

Of course I turned back and picked up the little fellow. When I set him ashore I made arrangements to purchase him. So it happened that two weeks later I carried him off under my arm on my homeward trip.

He was a capital little traveler, full of pluck, endurance and amiability. Spunky Swimmer is his name, or one of his names, though Tireless Traveler would have suited him as well. During the miles of canoe travel he sat purring or slumbering in my lap. Over the "carries" he was tucked under my arm or buttoned into my coat, with his tiny head poking out, wide, wondering eyes taking in all the beautiful scenery.

When we stopped at a camp for food, he wisely made friends with the hostess and politely ate everything offered to him. In the Pullman car he slept in a writing paper box full of ventilation holes. Altogether he was a most satisfactory and entertaining traveling companion.

When he reached my home, he met the rest of the household. He promptly won favor with my brother by his beauty, and with my maid by his good manners. He succeeded even in ingratiating himself moderately with Cinders, my seventeen-year-old gray kitty.

Now Swimmer is a half-grown cat, intelligent and obedient. He comes to call or to whistle. Well he knows how to wheedle tid-bits from all members of the family by sitting on his hind legs, like a little black squirrel. His glossy fur is soft and long. His amber eyes hold the mystery of the mountain, or is it of Karma, who certainly prompted his leap from the dock.

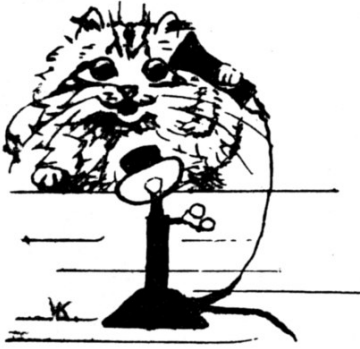

FEW timely words to our many newcomers in the cat fancy about clothes moths and cats' hairs. We know of nothing that attracts moths more than cats' hairs and even the scent of cats, to human beings unnoticeable.

When we first had pet cats, this lesson was dearly learned. On taking out a good woolen dress which had been left hanging during the summer, as was our almost invariably safe method previously, the front of the skirt, where puss had often taken his nap, was found riddled with moth holes. Then another dress, a summer one left hanging during the winter, by the time it was needed in the spring, had gone in the same way. Moth will even go to cotton goods where puss has not been himself, if some of his hair has blown there and been folded in, though in this case the goods itself is not injured.

Beside the use of camphor, which is expensive in these days, in the wrapped bundles, a little wiping off with benzine before putting away would be a safeguard. It is hardly necessary to mention that newspaper is one of the best things to use for wrapping woolens to be put away safely from moths. Only be sure that you wrap none inside and that there are no holes left by which they can enter; the woolens would be safer left hanging than snugly folded and a front door left open.

To clean cats' hair off of rugs, brush with a new dry scrubbing brush.

NEWS

Mrs. H. L. West's new address is 2659 Connecticut Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., where she will continue to act as recorder of the Cat Fanciers' Federation.

"Cat Tales—an insignificant sheet issued to, for and by the Glendale Cat Club of California"—has made its bow to the public. We welcome our younger sister. She is full of life and is a fine, healthy child.

The Glendale Club already has several challenge cups. There is rumor of a kitten bazaar in June.

The Omaha Cat Club was organized April 11 and has decided to meet every second Monday. Mrs. Clifford C. Stevens was elected president; Mrs. William Sulley, Jr., vice-president, and Mrs. R. E. George, secretary-treasurer.

Miss J. R. Kroeh of Orange, N. J., reports a sale made through her advertisement in the Review, to Mrs. C. B. Brooks of Paris, Texas. Mrs. Brooks purchased the blue-eyed white, sound-hearing queen, Kilravock Peggy Byng, daughter of Ch. Kilravock Don Leoni II and Kilravock Magnolia Fedora, in kitten to Kilravock Radiance. Peggy made the trip in five days and arrived in fine shape. Mrs. Brooks writes: "She was not misrepresented in any way and I certainly appreciate that as I have received several inferior cats, paying good prices for them. We think her beautiful and are so pleased with her."

Miss Kroeh asks us to call attention to her new address, 268 South Centre Street. She says, "We have not moved. It is merely that the City Fathers wished us to feel that they were taking a real interest in affairs, and so renumbered the entire city, to the no small irritation of the residents."

Mrs. F. B. Ryder of Binghamton, N. Y., reports a sale to Mrs. Thomas J. Mason of Houston, Texas, of a lovely young queen sired by Silver Echo ex her Ganymede queen, Silverland Sweet Briar. Mrs. Mason is very much pleased with her, "and from what she writes I am fully convinced that she," the little queen, "has fallen into very kind hands and a good home. I have lately had the name 'Silverland' registered as a cat-tery name."

LOS ANGELES CAT CLUB

The annual meeting of the Los Angeles Cat Club was held March 8, 1921, with the president, Mrs. King, in the chair. The annual reports were gratifying, especially that of the treasurer, showing the bank account of the club to be in a better condition than for many years. Several new members were received and nine names proposed for membership. The following were elected as officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. C. A. King; vice-president, Clarence O. Hiveley; corresponding secretary, Dr. Libbie W. Ashcroft; recording secretary, Mrs. W. L. Hartman.

Additional officers will be elected and committees appointed at the next meeting, at which time a committee appointed to revise the Constitution and By-laws will report.

L. W. ASHCROFT,
Corresponding Secretary.

GLENDALE CAT CLUB

The first annual meeting of the Glendale Cat Club was held March 10, with Mr. Fred Hendrickson presiding. Reports of the club's half year of existence were most encouraging. Two applicants' names were voted upon favorably for membership. Four three-win challenge cups were offered to the club by members and more are expected. Notice of the club's election to the C. F. F. was received, as was official acceptance of the Silver Specialty Show. If two more cats had been present, four points would have been granted, but all felt that a three-point show for a maiden effort was not altogether bad.

Upon motion, it was decided to issue a monthly bulletin of club activities to out-of-town members. Dr. Ashcroft was appointed to take charge of this.

Officers elected were: President, Mr. Fred Hendrickson; first vice-president, Mr. Norman Ashcroft; second vice-president, Mrs. T. A. Crawford; secretary, Mrs. G. Dewey; treasurer, Mrs. Grace Hendrickson.

BERESFORD CAT CLUB OF AMERICA

The annual meeting of the Beresford Cat Club of America was held in the Columbus Memorial Building, March 25, 1921.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Jessie M. Kessler, 3821 West Jackson Boulevard; treasurer, Mrs. Robert Christy, 2535 East 73d Street; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Vie A. Dormer, 4608 Ravenswood Avenue; recording secretary, Mrs. Elsie Kress, 920 Crescent Place; first vice-president, Mrs. Lillian Connors; second vice-president, Mrs. W. E. Colburn; third vice-president, Mrs. Alma Nowakowsky; fourth vice-president, Mrs. W. A. Hardy; fifth vice-president, Mrs. Cora C. Dempsey; sixth vice-president, Mrs. S. J. Chapman. Directors, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. Robson, Mrs. O'Brien, Mrs. Bailey, Miss Douglass.

MRS. VIE A. DORMER,
Corresponding Secretary.

EMPIRE CAT CLUB

The regular meeting of the Empire Cat Club was held April 1, at the home of Miss Judge.

Routine business was transacted, the show was discussed, and two new members were elected.

On June 11 the club will hold an apron sale at the home of Mrs. Robinson, Glen Morris, L. I. Tea will be served and a cat exhibit has been planned.

The dark horse was won by Miss Judge, proceeds used to swell the specials fund.

Luncheon was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Adjourned to meet with Mrs. Sheridan in May.

MADGE M. CROUCH,
Secretary.

SILVER SOCIETY

The March meeting of the Silver Society was held Tuesday, March 22, at the home of Mrs. Busey, with the president, Mrs. L. B. Sturgis, presiding.

The minutes of the annual meeting were read and approved, and the treasurer's report accepted.

The secretary gave a report of the wins on the society's cups and trophies during the show season. The Beechwood cup, for best long-haired shaded silver kitten, was won outright by Miss Carroll Macy, the final win having been made at the Silver Society section of the United Show in January. The treasurer was instructed to deliver the cup to Miss Macy.

The society decided that the resolution passed October 31, 1918, governing the offer of its cups and trophies at the last show held under the rules of the A. C. A., applies also to the United Show. The resolution is as follows:

"These specials are offered in both the C. F. A. and A. C. A. If the same cat, kitten or cattery should win in both sections, only one win will be credited. If two different cats, kittens or catteries win, each will receive a win."

Four new members were unanimously elected.

The resignation of Mrs. H. L. West as secretary of the society, who returns to her former home in Washington, D. C., was read by the chair, and on motion of Miss Ethel Champion, seconded by Miss Josephine Campbell, was accepted with regret and with an expression of appreciation for services rendered.

There was no election to fill the vacancy. The president was asked to communicate with Mrs. Herbert Nichols, with reference to her acceptance of the position.

Mrs. West will retain the office of treasurer.

There being no further business, the meeting adjourned.

MARY HOPE WEST,
Acting Secretary.

CAT MOTHERS BABY RATS IN RICHMOND BANK

Richmond, Va., February 3.—A cat which makes its home in the First National Bank building was found nursing and mothering three infant rats in a cupboard. The cat with her curious litter of young ones was discovered by John Scheerer, night engineer.

He noticed the feline bringing long-tailed animals through the engine room, but thought it was only a catch. He looked in the nest later and saw her cuddled up with some young ones. Thinking they were kittens, he procured a flashlight and examination revealed the rodents.

A PINECROFT PLACE MATRON

PINECROFT PICKANINNIES are snub nosed copper-eyed blacks, sired by Pincroft Pluto, who as a kit won first at Modesto and Los Angeles. Mated to Pomona and Persephone, he gets wonderful kits with the blood of Black Thursday, Bokhara, Strongheart, Ch. Erebus, Ch. Cyrus the Great, etc., back of them.

WE ARE SPECIALISTS

Since April, 1919, we have shipped $1,000.00 worth of gentle, healthy, well-groomed kits to delighted fanciers, East and West. Satisfaction and Safe Shipment guaranteed.

Write your needs to us.

Pincroft Pussywillows recently made their debut and are very popular. Book orders now for kits with Ch. Turk's Cap, Blue Mooney, Ch. Neila Billi and Ch. Barbe Bleue back of them.

PINECROFT PEARLS are flat-faced, cobby whites sired by Pincroft Padrone Paramount (formerly Northern Victory), a magnificent, blue-eyed, sound hearing white. Best Cat in Show, Portland, 1918. Pincroft's Peerless Pearl, etc., line and color bred are the dams.
