Preamble

COVER CAT

GR.CH. GALLANTREE'S HOBIE CAT, handsome Ruddy Abyssinian male bred and owned by Ron & Judy Bauer, Grayslake, Illinois, introduces the 2nd annual salute to the GREAT CATS OF NORTH AMERICA and the biggest issue of CAT WORLD published to date!

Our thanks to Mrs. Jean Rose, CFA Executive Director, for her invaluable assistance with this feature, and to the owners of the distinguished CFA Grand Champions for displaying their portraits in the Gallery (p.23) and giving fanciers in all parts of the cat world a chance to view them. We also send thanks to the many advertisers in this commemorative issue---your support made its size possible.

WELCOME TO ...

... Mrs. Margaret Thompson, of Glendower Manx cattery, Los Gatos, California, who wrote the interesting article on the Manx (p.6). It was her GLENDOWER'S LLEWELLYN MICHAEL who was cover cat last July/August.

... Mrs. Edna Field, popular CFA judge who lives in Ontario, Canada. She is the author of the comprehensive article on how to groom longhaired cats (p.56). Although she penned it with the novice fancier in mind, we feel that it also includes helpful hints for the intermediate. A native of Essex, England, Mrs. Field breeds Abys, ASH, Himalayans and Persians at her Chota-Li cattery.

... Mr. Don Fix, another Californian, whose column SHOWMANSHIP debuts (p.16). A breeder of Abys and Siamese, this CFA Master Clerk is President of Aby Breeders Intl., a director of Siamese Cat Society of America and past president of Cats Royale. He is a certified marksmanship instructor for National Rifle Association and author of "Cat Show Manual" (must-reading for show managers).

BOOK REVIEW

"COLORPOINT LONGHAIR & HIMALAYAN CATS", S.M. Manton, F.R.S., Crown Publishers, N.Y. $9.75. Published 1971. 142 pages.

CAPSULE COMMENT: Of immense value to all Colorpoint (Himalayan) breeders, as well as worthwhile reading for Birman, Balinese, Siamese and Colorpoint Shorthair breeders.

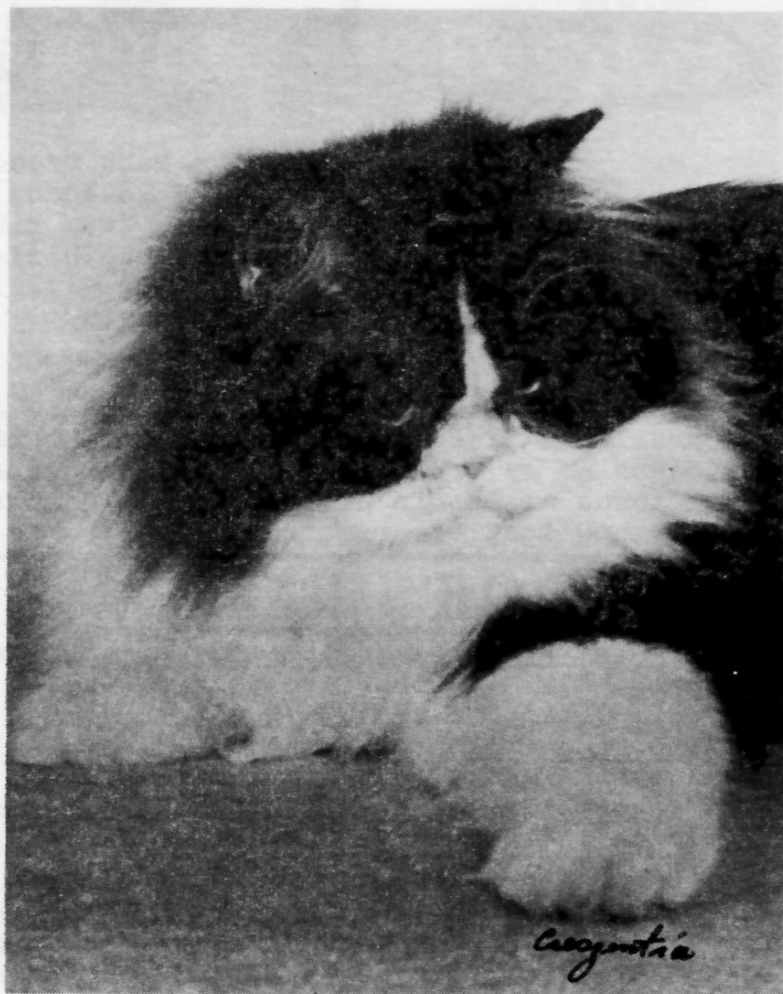

This comprehensive book on the genetics, care and breeding of the cat known in America as the HIMALAYAN and elsewhere as the COLOURPOINT LONGHAIR, is written by an authority on the subject, zoologist S.M. Manton, F.R.S., better known in the fancy as Mrs. J.P. Harding of the famous Mingchui Cattery, England.

Mrs. Harding's book is ideal for both the novice and the more experienced Himalayan breeder. She starts right at the beginning, 23 years ago, with an in-depth account of the development of the breed in England in a combined breeding program of Mingchui and Briary, the late Brian Stirling-Webb's cattery. This program is carefully detailed from the early crosses between Longhair and Siamese, intended to ultimately result in a Longhaired cat of Siamese pattern, to later breedings with the offspring of succeeding generations to get the desired type.

Explanations are given concerning the obtaining of Seal, Blue, Chocolate and Lilac point colors as well as the sex-linked Red, Tortie and Cream point colors. Mrs. Harding also discusses the more recent development of the Self Lilac and Self Chocolate Himalayans.

CFA GRANDS REMEMBERED

The first Grand Champion of The Cat Fanciers' Association belonged to Julia Hunter. He was a Red Tabby Persian named EASTBURY TRIGO. Since TRIGO, the long, colorful line of successful fancy cats has continued and the latest additions are honored in this issue of CAT WORLD. To achieve such an honor requires not only the progeny of careful breeding but also hours of work and sacrifice on the part of the breeder. Herein we salute all Grand Champions of C.F.A.

Particular attention will be paid to those remarkable cats that stamped their excellence on generations born and generations to come.

It isn't necessary to follow chronological order when one thinks of cats that are remembered over the years. To those who know Burmese, MIZPAH'S CLANCY comes immediately to mind. He was a magnificent cat and represented the culmination of long years of struggle for respect for the Burmese breed. CLANCY was born March 6, 1959, sired by GHIRARDELLI ALLA MIZPAH and bred by Vivian Chartier.

At about the same time that CLANCY made his mark on cat history, a Copper-Eyed White male Persian was on the scene. SHAWNEE MOONFLIGHT, born August 1, 1958, was bred by Nikki Horner. His dam was GR. CH. SHAWNEE MOONFLOWER and his sire was CH. KLINKHAMMER'S TOPPER OF CASTILIA. MOONFLIGHT stood out as a remarkable Persian among a long line of cats.

Another Grand Champion of note was SILVER MESA MISS PIXYANNE, a Shaded Silver Persian female owned by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Webb of California. She was a sweet faced example of the pattern and achieved a great record of wins from 1957 to 1961.

Of the Chinchilla Persians it is difficult to cite a better example than GR. CH. MATA-BLU MATADOR owned by Mr. Stanley Barnaby. MATADOR's dam was BRAVES SUZETTE OF MATA-BLU, and he was sired by SILVER MESA NAKOTA OF CHAYZAR. MATADOR, great sire that he was, passed on his quality to generations of Silvers.

There are so many fine Persian cats that it is difficult to move on to another breed without considering BEAMSLEY SUNSHINE, a truly great Cream, and that maker of great Blacks, PIED PIPER OF BARBE BLEUE.

Miss Verner Clum had been to England several times to obtain good Persian stock, but the best of her imports came to America sight unseen. When Miss Clum and her friend, Florence Kemmer, went to the airport to pick up SUNNY they were overwhelmed by his beauty. BEAMSLEY SUNSHINE was one of the greatest Persians of all time.

The outstanding Black Persian, by virtue of himself and his progeny, was PIED PIPER OF BARBE BLEUE. He was bred and initially owned by Miss Peggy Harbaugh of San Francisco. He was born July 30, 1945, sired by BARBE BLEUE PERSONALITY; his dam was BARBE BLEUE MANDY. PIED PIPER was later owned by Mrs. Frances Campbell and Mrs. Bess Morse. For all practical purposes, GR.CH. PIED PIPER OF BARBE BLEUE can be named as the sire of Black Persians.

Over the years, the Siamese have changed conformation considerably. Of the more modern type, it was TEE-CEE who placed his mark on future Siamese. Mrs. Fred W. Galvin bred this fabulous Seal Point male. He was born in 1954 and until his death in 1962, TEE-CEE passed his heritage on to FAN-T-CEE PHOENIX OF WOLFGANG, FAN-T-CEE BLUE FANCY, DINAPOLI BLUE TANGO, FAN-T-CEE ENCHANTRESS and KABAR KENNY, to ERICKSON'S BARON OF MAI PROFILE, MALOJA MERLIN and to JEN-KINS' VICTOR RHEE and to so many others that space does not permit their naming.

Of the Chocolates, it is ABERDEEN'S LOLITA OF BLUE IRIS, bred by Harriet Cole Zimmerman and owned by Erolyn Snelling, that led the parade. The Blue Point Siamese have included such worthy cats as WOLFGANG'S LIEBSTI II OF THANI, TY-RU'S COPICAT and Camille Flankey's DIXIE DREAM.

Grand Champion Abyssinians constitute another group of cats. Consider the quality of SELENE'S FIREFLY and CHOTA-LI R.S.T. Perhaps the Aby that set the breed on fire was PHAROH RAMESSES II. (Ed. note: See CW, Nov./Dec., 1973.)

Although it is our oldest breed, the American Shorthair is the youngest and most inexperienced in setting quality from one generation to the next. The Grand Champions who come to mind are SHAWNEE TRADEMARK, a handsome Silver Tabby, and perhaps one of the most unique Grand Champions in the recent history of fancy cats is MALE MAN OF DE TRACY a Brown Mackerel of unknown parentage.

The Rex is one of the youngest of the breeds yet GR. CH. RODELL'S RAVENESQUE has established the quality of excellence that is desirable in the breed.

How is it possible to pay tribute to so many fine CFA Grand Champions in such limited space? Everyone concerned with the breeding of fine cats has his favorites; but perhaps by citing a few of the many, the reader will be sufficiently interested to review the history that began with EASTBURY TRIGO.###

The MANX

by MARGARET THOMPSON

The 'origin of the Manx cat' is perhaps the most overworked part of the Manx story. It is most likely that the Manx originated on the Isle of Man as a mutation, as suggested by the Isle veterinarian. With this particular mutant, which is semi-dominant, the closed cat population on the Isle began to acquire a distinct physical structure. If the mutant had occurred on the mainland, it would probably have been lost. This is the main reason why Manx should not be outcrossed to other breeds. While you may get tailless cats, they have lost many of the Manx characteristics.

It is continually amazing how many people believe that the only Manx cat is a tailless cat. The Manx actually comes in three styles: tailless, partially tailed (stubbies) and completely tailed (longies). All three of these styles are Manx. There are still some Manx breeders that insist on discarding the fully tailed Manx from their breeding programs. It has been my experience that the fully tailed Manx produce just as many quality rumpies as any other type of Manx. If these fully tailed cats are not Manx, then what are they, and why do they produce tailless Manx? It would seem more logical to select Manx breeding stock on all the physical attributes rather than just taillessness. It should be mentioned here that the tailless, semi- and fully tailed Manx are not related to the Japanese Bobtail, nor should they be confused with partially tailed household pets. The pedigreed Manx is the product of much time and work. It will produce consistent quality and character.

Regardless of when or where the Manx originated, the show Manx has the identifying feature of being completely tailless. It is born this way. About 38% of all Manx kittens are born tailless. Perhaps this is why so few people are willing to work with the breed. No other breed starts out with such a few potential show kittens. Most Manx breeders accept these odds because they enjoy working with all types of Manx, not just the show variety.

There are other less obvious qualities that identify the Manx. Here, in North America, they include shortness of back, shape of head, heavy rounded rump, longer hind legs, and a deeply piled plushy coat. The CFA Manx standard is included at the end of this discussion.

The Manx breed is still in the growing stage. For that reason, all natural colors are allowed, including parti-colors. Any colors that indicate hybridization such as lavender, brown, abyssinian or colorpoints are not acceptable. Lockets and buttons are allowed and should not be penalized. When the number of breeding Manx stock reaches a suitable level, such allowances will probably be discontinued.

BREEDING PROGRAM

It is impossible to recommend a breeding program that will work all the time regardless of the lines. It is important to explore all the possible combinations of the lines you are planning to work with.

It is not necessary, in my opinion, to avoid breeding rumpy to rumpy or inbreeding. We have several outstanding cats from outcrosses---GR. CHs. BRUCE, LLEWELLYN MICHAEL, SUSAN MARGARET and DELILAH---but the quality is unpredictable. We have only just started inbreeding, but our first impression is that the overall quality is more consistent and greatly improved. We have not determined how long this close breeding will be beneficial before an outcross is necessary.

Our general practice has been to use at least one rumpy parent. Our statistics show a drastic decrease in the number of rumpy kittens if neither parent is a true rumpy. Our rumpies are bred to rumpies, rumpy risers, stubbies and longies: however, our stubbies, risers and longies are bred only to rumpies. We prefer using either rumpies or longies for breeding rather than stubbies and risers.

We select our breeding pairs and future stock basically on quality of conformation. We do not use two radically different cats, but rather two cats that are similar but with compensating virtues. The improvement is slower but it is more likely to be a permanent transistion rather than a fluke. We also consider the kittens' parents and grandparents when selecting a pair. It has been our experience that kittens generally resemble one of their grandparents.

PERSONALITY

The Manx is one of the most intelligent and sensitive cats known. Because of the breed's sensitivity towards the wishes of their owners, they are the easiest of all felines to train. A stern scolding is usually enough to correct an undesirable trait.

It is said that the Manx is cold and aloof. This is generally when the cat has been transferred from home to home or when he is not being treated like a true member of the family. The Manx knows when he is being shut out and he invariably lets you know that he knows. Manx are definitely the 'Libbers' of the cat world.

Manx tend to adopt the personality of their owners. They can be very quiet, but will carry on a conversation with you. A Manx female is at her peak when she has kittens. They are born mothers and like to have their kittens with them well past the normal three months; it is not uncommon for them to adopt another litter.

Our very first Manx, GR.CH. RAMAYANA DAISY MAE, and her daughter TOMMY LOU had litters one week apart. Shortly before TOMMY had hers, she would babysit DAISY'S. After TOMMY'S arrived, she moved DAISY'S in with hers. Concerned for the babies, we separated the litters in different rooms. Immediately after separation, TOMMY deposited her kittens in the wastepaper basket and refused to eat. Needless to say, the litters were raised together and benefited from two doting mothers.

DIET AND SHOW PREPARATION

The average Manx stands about 14-16 inches at the shoulder and weighs from 10 to 15 pounds. The females are slightly smaller.

The breed is very adaptable with good appetites. Our diet consists of equal amounts of fresh meat (beef/horsemeat), canned cat food and cat chow. This is all mixed together with tomato juice and vitamins high in liver and iron.

When preparing our Manx for show, we alter the diet by increasing the amount of canned food and vitamins. This increases the weight and brightens the coat. It is imperative that the housing temperature be less than 65-70 degrees for proper coat depth.

The only other show preparation needed is a daily combing with a wide tooth comb and glossing with a terry towel. If it is necessary, the hair tufts on the tips of the ears should be removed to enhance the rounded appearance.

To be absolutely sure that the cat is in top condition, we bathe it two days before the show. Any powdering and brushing against the fur is done while the cat is still damp. We prepare our cats for the judges' handling by requiring them to stand for any grooming.

It is rather unfair to overly criticize the judge who insists on poking and prodding the Manx to check taillessness. He is generally unfamiliar with the breed. It is sufficient to run the hand down the back and over the rump. A rise is generally found by holding the cat with its front legs elevated and by running a hand down the back. It should also be noted that many rumpies do not have a decided hollow at the end of the spine. It is far more desirable that the cat appear completely tailless.

MOVEMENT

A word about the movement of the Isle of Man tailless cat is appropriate. It is imperative that the cat exhibit the ability to walk normally. The 'bunny-like' hopping gait so often associated with the breed is a characteristic found in some members of the breed. It is not, however, a usual or desirable trait for it invariably is the result of some degree of compensation by the animal for its incomplete control of muscle coordination in the hindquarters.

The Manx has been credited with carrying the lethal factor. A 'lethal' factor is any factor that kills. This lethal factor exists in all breeds of cat and manifests itself in a variety of ways. Manx breeders seem to be the only people willing to discuss the possibility of abnormalities. Perhaps this is because they really wish to produce a breed that is free from such difficulties. What better way than to share knowledge?

It is very interesting to recall the advice given to us when we expressed an interest in Manx six years ago. Our wellwishers who worked with other breeds strongly discouraged us with all the terrible problems we would encounter. The experienced Manx breeders warned of potential problems if we did not exercise a bit of commonsense and follow the rules. After working with the Manx these past years, I am firmly convinced that the Manx is just as strong and healthy as any other breed, perhaps even more so. Luck plays a big part in any breeding program, but common sense and care are still the key practices. The Manx is not unique in this respect.

Contrary to popular comment, the Manx is thriving. All the negative comments by uninformed people have reinforced the determination of the Manx breeders to set the record straight. What better proof than the increasing quality and number of Manx seen each year? The Manx is here to stay!###

MANX CFA STANDARD

HEAD (10): Fairly round with prominent cheeks and jowly appearance. Medium in length without a definite nose break. Muzzle tapering but not to a sharp point. Ears rather wide at base, tapering slightly to a point and longer than those of the American Shorthair, but in porportion to the head.

EYES (5): Large, round, and full. Points to be divided equally between size and color.

BODY (25): Solid, compact, and well balanced with the back showing a definite incline from the shoulders to the haunches. Small or medium in size, "Bunnylike" in appearance.

FLANK (5): Of great depth, adding to the cobbiness and balance.

TAILESSNESS (10): Absolute in the perfect specimen. A decided hollow at the end of the backbone where, in the ordinary cat, a tail would begin.

BACK (5): Sturdy and short to conform with the actual size of the well balanced cat.

LEGS (15): Of good substance, with front legs short and set well apart to show good depth of chest. Back legs much longer with a heavy muscular thigh tapering to a substantial lower leg that often has the hair worn off due to the fact that the Manx rests on this part as often as on the paws. Paws are small, neat and well rounded with five toes in front and four toes behind.

COAT (15): Short, of good texture, with well padded quality, arising from the longer outer coat and the thicker undercoat, known as a double coat.

CONDITION (5): Good physical condition. Muscular, good flesh, but not fat.

COLOR & MARKINGS (5): All colors and color combinations are accepted.

PENALIZE: A rise of the bone at the end of the spine. A non-visible joint or cartilage.

WITHHOLD WINNERS: Definite, visible tail joint. Incorrect number of toes.

Patricia Turner

STUDENTS' SEMINAR

In Study Unit 6 I referred to the gene for dilution which converts black or seal to blue, red to cream and chocolate to lilac. This has puzzled one reader who had previously believed the dilution gene to be that which converts black to brown. He had been under the impression that the gene I described is that known as the "blue" gene and asked for clarification.

This problem is one of terminology. The colour gene known as the dilution gene is one affecting the intensity of coat and eye colour by clumping the pigment granules but not, as in the alleles of the albino series, decreasing the number of granules secreted. When dilution is present, the granules are concentrated into irregular groups so that light absorption is affected and black fur looks grey or blue. If the fur has already been affected by a gene at another locus then the clumping will still take place but the final effect will differ in accordance with the original coat colour. When the cat already owns two genes for brown, the clumping caused by dilution gives the lilac colour effect and, when the cat owns one or two genes for orange or red the clumping gives the cream colour effect. Thus "dilution" and "blue" are one and the same if we are discussing the differences between black and blue cats. But if we are concerned with chocolate brown and lilac cats or with red and cream cats a reference to "blue" may be misleading.

As one concerned actively in genetic research, I have been careful to use only terms that are accepted terminology in scientific circles and to avoid the use of "slang" names sometimes used by fanciers. By this means, the information I give should be intelligible to all English speaking breeders. The name used internationally for the gene producing blue on black, cream on red and lilac on chocolate is "dilution". It is inherited as a simple recessive and its alternative is "full intensity of colour".

both its colour and shape. The brown gene also affects eye colour. So the picture of a black cat is one of normally shaped black pigment granules: when dilution acts upon these they retain their colour and shape but clump into groups giving the EFFECT of blue. When the gene for brown acts upon the normal black granules they are altered both in colour and shape but do not clump. IF the cat has both brown and dilution active it is lavender or lilac and has brown pigment granules which are clumped into groups. Technically it is incorrect to describe brown as a dilution. It is symbolized as b with its alternative being B.

A full description of the dilution and brown genes can be found in "The Comparative Genetics of Coat Colour In Mammals" by A.G. Searle, published 1968 by Logos Press & Academic Press. Further details of the effects of these genes in the Siamese breeds are to be found in the forthcoming "Encyclopedia of the Siamese Cat" by Mary Dunnill, published by Pelham Books. Breeding charts for all colours of Siamese are given in the section on genetics. Other references can be found in "Genetics for Cat Breeders" by Roy Robinson, published by Pergamon, and in "The Biology of the Laboratory Mouse", 2nd Edition, published by McGraw-Hill, New York.

"NEITHER-NORS"

The second part of this seminar should deal with what are described as the "neither-nors". It seems that this term is in common usage among cat fancy writers in the U.S.A. but, as an Englishwoman, I admit defeat. I am unable to comment on the "neither-nors" for the simple reason that I do not know what they are! The reader went on in her letter to state that she had been advised against breeding Seal Point Siamese to Chocolate Points and Blue Point Siamese to Lilac Points and, in some way, the "neither-nors" appear to be associated with these statements. I can certainly comment on this point.

Generally speaking, Siamese breeders are in agreement over the desired points and coat colour of the Seal Point. A good Seal Point in one state or country is probably acceptable as a good Seal Point in another. Thus breeders of Seal Points tend to select their breeding stock with a common ideal in mind. Unfortunately this situation is not so apparent in other colours. The older breeders bemoan the loss of the true milk chocolate point Siamese and, while some judges may describe a Chocolate Point as "nearly ginger", others may write of the same cat: "a full, rich, true chocolate". The differences in chocolate point colouration are partly due to polygenes (small genes with additive effect) for a quality known as rufism, although there are also grounds for belief that another major gene may also be involved. Blue Points also vary, although less markedly than Chocolates, while the differences in Lilac Points

BRAZIL GAINS A JUDGE

by ANNE MARIE GASNIER

The foundation of the Clube Brasileiro do Gato ("The Cat Fancy In Brazil", CW, Nov./Dec., 1973) was the first stage for the development and expansion of cats in Brazil. However, we soon came upon the first obstacle we had expected: obtaining internationally-recognized judges. The help of older feline organizations was imperative since we did not have the authority to make judges out of nothing! Once we became a member of Fédération Internationale Féline, such authority was vested in a jury of FIFE.

As mentioned previously, the judge for our first show was Mme. Ravel, international all-breed judge, FIFE President of Honor, Secretary of the Cat Club de Paris, and one of the most influential personalities connected with feline activities in Europe. We owe it to her that my husband accepted the idea of sending me to Europe for an apprenticeship which would permit me to become a judge.

Normally, FIFE requires its judges to serve as steward at four shows; as apprentice judge (longhair) at six shows; and as apprentice judge (shorthair) at twelve shows. For obvious reasons, the course for me had to be concluded with a certain speed and it was with the cooperation and understanding of the Board of FIFE that I had the great pleasure to open the list of Brazilian judges which I hope will soon grow. One of our club members, Mr. Claudio Gornati, is now attending college in France and, at the same time, is studying to become a judge.

This wonderful trip to Europe permitted me to realize an old dream. I had a chance to see the hard work undertaken by the clubs in organizing their international cat shows and the care with which they do it. Another satisfaction was the warm reception received by Brazil as a new member of FIFE. Our flag was present with those of other members and exhibiting nations.

I arrived in Paris on October 10, 1973, and the international cat show was to be held at the Salle Bastille on October 13 and 14. For two days I acted as an apprentice judge next to Mrs. Brita Remborg, judge and secretary of FIFE, who taught me a lot about judging shorthairs. In Paris I was staying with a charming family, breeders of Birmans, Mr. and Mrs. de Pindray. I had some unforgettable days in this beautiful city of my birth which I had left at a young age and to which this was my first return.

Mr. C.F. Nordane, Norway, offers a medal from his Club as a prize for the 1974 Brazil show to Senora Anne Marie Gasnier as Mrs. Brita Remborg, Sweden, looks on at Neuchatel, Switzerland.

The following week at Amsterdam, Holland I apprenticed with Mrs. Pia Hollenstein, FIFE president, who was judging longhairs at the international cat show of Felikat, October 20 and 21.

The third weekend I was in Essen, Germany, at another international show. This time my teacher was a shorthair judge, Mr.

LeBeau. To conclude this series of shows in which I could participate, I went to Switzerland with Mme. Ravel and Mlle. Poirier, also a FIFE judge, to apprentice at the Neuchatel International Show, Nov. 3-4. Again I was next to Mrs. Kastengren-Remborg who was, this time, judging longhairs.

Within one short month I visited France, Holland, Germany and Switzerland, saw the first cat shows I had ever seen other than the one I had organized in Sao Paulo, and apprenticed under some of the most prominent judges of FIFE. Further, I myself became a judge for Brazil only.

At Neuchatel, for the first time, Brazil had a seat at the FIFE General Assembly. I had the honor to sit next to Mme. Ravel, Mrs. Hollenstein and Mrs. Remborg and had the great pleasure of meeting people who represented other member nations.

The judging certificate I received is rather special and an exception to the normal rules of FIFE, but it permits the Brazilian club to promote small national shows between the annual international ones.

I still hope some day to become an All Breed International judge. Meanwhile, this authority which permits me to judge in Brazil is a very great step forward for our Club and myself.###

FELINE INFECTIOUS ANEMIA

Feline Infectious Anemia is a disease of cats caused by the blood parasite, hemobartonella felis. It is possible that this disease accounts for as much as half the anemias brought into the clinic to be treated.

Hemobartonella felis is a microscopic organism thought by many to be related to the Rickettsia organisms. This organism parasitizes the circulating red blood cells causing either direct destruction of the red blood cells or an alteration of the red blood cells so that the spleen destroys them. This, in turn, results in an anemia. Anemia is defined as a lesion in which there is a decrease of the number, mass or hemoglobin of the circulating red blood cells.

Transmission of this organism may be caused by biting insects such as fleas. There is a suspicion that it may also be spread by biting and scratching of infected to uninfected cats. An incubation of 18 days occurs in which there are no apparent signs of illness. Stress may later activate the disease causing acute illness.

This disease affects all ages of cats. Most cases, however, seem to fall between the ages of one and three. It also seems to occur more in males than females.

The most common signs are extreme lethargy, loss of appetite along with the signs of anemia, paleness of the membranes. Without treatment, FIA seems to run a cyclical course with acute signs and remissions occurring about every four days.

Often there is a history of stress involved. This may be the cat running away and returning in an exhausted condition, or a fight several weeks previously resulting in bite wounds with abscess formation. Maybe this is the activation of a latent infection when the body defenses have been weakened.

Proper diagnosis of this disease is dependent upon observation of the parasite in a blood smear under the microscope. However, due to the cyclical nature of the disease in which there is massive destruction of the red blood cells, there may be apparent disappearance of the organisms. Three or four blood smears often must be run.

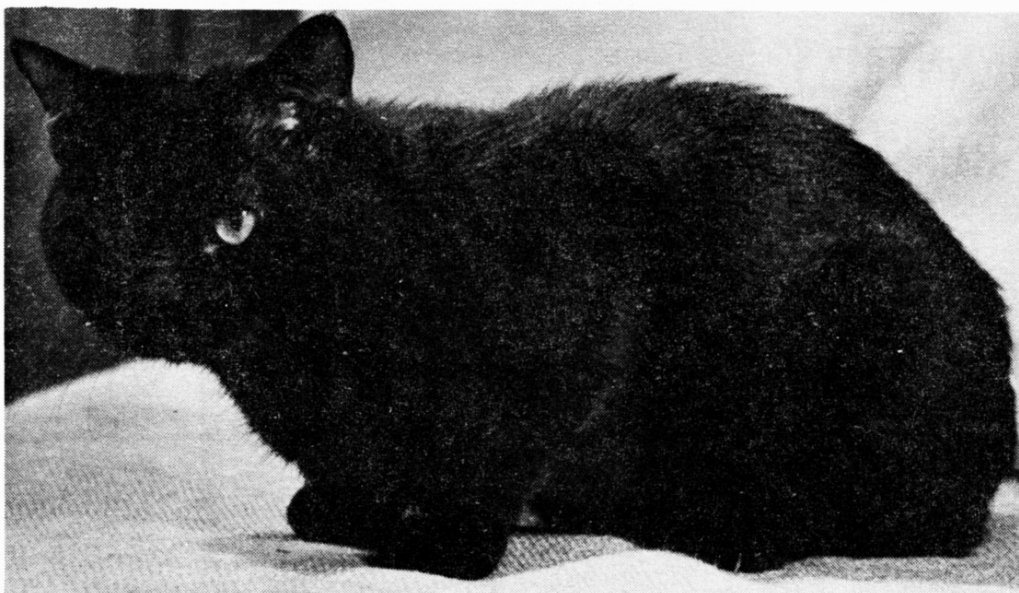

Treatment of this disease is twofold. One is directly against the organism itself; the second is support of the patient. The broad spectrum antibiotics such as tetracy-

FITTING YOUR SHOW IN WITH THE OTHERS
 "Let's Hold A Show!" is the eventual maturation of "Let's Form A Club!". After all, if you're going to get together with a group of cat fancy friends for a dinner or party or summer BBQ, there is no need to set up a constitution/by-laws, choose a name for the group, affiliate with a Cat Registry and elect officers for the occasion the basic reason to "organize" into a club is toward the collective responsibility of staging a show.

Usually, the first question from the floor will be "When?". The answer, if properly discussed, will get the event off to a good start in terms of both exhibitors and public attendance; not to mention good support from the club members themselves! The three groups of people who put together a successful show are the (1) EXHIBITORS (who bring the cats); (2) PUBLIC (who bring the gate); and (3) CLUB MEMBERS (who do the work). Do you believe that? Well, shows with late flyers or conflicting dates sometimes cancel for lack of EXHIBITORS---shows with no publicity are super-fun because there is no gate to crowd the aisles; but the club may be seriously "in the hole" afterwards; shows put on with little regard for their members result in two or three people doing all the work, and, Gawdamitey, are they grouchy! No fun! So, the best shows will have the highest "Happiness Ratings" among the Exhibitors, the Public and the Members of the Club! Here is a good way to start planning, right from the question: "WHEN?"

(1) YOUR CLUB MEMBERS ARE YOUR MOST IMPORTANT GROUP so optimize their enthusiasm first! If you have 20 Persian breeders out of 24 members, they might not want to stage a SUMMER SHORTHAIR SHOW as there would be something missing, namely their entries! However, they might get excited about the event if you include LONGHAIR KITTENS: why not? Summer Shorthair shows are good fund-raisers. Members have "Seasonal Rushes" at work; they have traditional vacation times--holidays at Grandma's, Memorial Day and Labor Day are famous holidays for ruining cat show attendance at least in this writer's experience. Find out when your members are available and you're off to the best start.

(2) YOUR EXHIBITORS ARE THE NEXT MOST IMPORTANT GROUP so gather up everything you can on "annual" show dates in the general season preferred by your members (Summer, Fall or Spring = May/August; September/November and January/March or April). Some important things to remember here are:

- (a) Try to locate 3 weeks BEHIND another show in the area; you can accept entries at their event!
- (b) Try to stay 2 weeks AHEAD of the closest following show; otherwise you're forcing budgeting-exhibitors to choose between you, and both of you will lose.

There may be several weekends that "fit the bill" so far, so note them (only one may have an available showhall date) and consider:

(3) THE EFFECT OF YOUR SELECTED DATES ON THE PUBLIC who will provide the "gate" revenues for your show. Holidays are again important for the Public. If you have a showhall in a popular area, try the Fourth of July; if you're in a neighborhood location or a remote fairgrounds (with few holiday rentals in the other buildings) forget holidays and work with normal weekends. If you're in a shopping mall, the weekends between Thanksgiving and mid-December are the best as stores are open evenings and their Christmas sales and advertising will bring the public to your front door. We'll talk more about showhalls in a later column; suffice it to say at this time that if you plan your show at a time and locale where people usually gather, your chances of success are high.

Should you have a problem estimating or locating other shows (for item #2 above) you have some sprucing-up to do within your club. Socially, the better that your club fits in with the clubs around it, the more fun you will have in the cat fancy in general. Visit

New 'Firsts' For Parti-Color Persians

The 1973-'74 show season produced two more 'First Grand' milestones for the Persian breed as BEIRUT'S HAIL TO REASON and BEIRUT'S WILDFELL became Grand Champions. WILDFELL is CFA's first Calico Persian Grand; HAIL TO REASON is the first Black-&-White (second Bi-Color) to Grand.

Both females earned their titles at the age of 10½ months and successfully completed the season at Garden State Cat Club's Asbury Park, N.J., show April 20-21. Here, in judge Richard Gebhardt's All Breed ring, HAIL TO REASON went Best Longhair, Best Grand Champion and Best Cat in Show. Her cattery mate was right behind her being chosen 2nd Best LH, 2nd Best Grand and 2nd Best Cat!

Their breeder, Dorothy Akers of Dallas, Pa., has worked many years to produce these fine cats and is very proud of them. They are the result of a careful program of line breeding. She wrote: "The bi-color and calico Persians cannot be produced unless one parent is either bi-colored or calico. Other solid colors, which occur in about half of the litter, will never again produce the 'white spotted cats'. If a solid and a bi-color or calico are bred together, you get half 'white spotted' and half solids. The way to get an idea what to expect in a given cross is to use the schedule for sex-linked colors per-

MORE ON THE BIRMANS

When I started to breed the Birman, I was in partnership with Mrs. Richards. Our joint prefix was 'Paranjoti' and we imported the cats mentioned in my article in the last issue of CAT WORLD, with the exception of CH. GHANDI VON ASSINDIA, Blue male which I imported from Germany after Mrs. Richards and I parted company and I reverted to my own 'Praha' prefix.

It seems so long ago since the photos were taken and the Birman have gained in popularity immensely.

Mrs. E. Fisher, 47, Marlborough Mansions, Cannon Hill, London, England.

CHANGE IN BIRMAN STANDARD

As you went to press with the last issue, the GCCF and CFA Standards for the Birman were revised! At the Annual General Meeting of GCCF Birman Club, England, the same Standard as Australia, coinciding with ours, was voted for.

CFA Birman Standard now has: 'Areas of pure white, other than on the paws, a penalty' This is in place of 'No awards.', a great help to almost all the breeders.

I wish you could see the letters expressing wonderment of the advert of SBCF in CW. Yesterday alone, I spent $5.72 in postage to send out requests for Newsletter. Speaks volumes for your publication!

MANX HAVE ROBUST HEALTH & GOOD NATURE

We enjoy your magazine very much and look forward to an article on Manx. When you do it, please concentrate on the robust health and good nature of this very special breed-- other articles in other magazines have chosen to dwell on so-called lethal genes and breeding difficulties which is not only sensationalism, but 99% baloney! It is a tired old tune that has been worked to death, and I am sure we Manx people can count on CAT WORLD as always for reliable information and fresh, informed viewpoints. You do a unique favor and service by bringing cat lovers all over the world to a closer understanding and better friendship. Best of luck to you!

"Our bloodline was started on a single, very brilliantly marked Calico female ten years ago. We carefully bred by selective breeding and then started to line breed on our Black stud, CH. ARAHO'S CAVIAR, (Voo Doo line), who was responsible for the quality of type in these cats.

"One interesting fact about this program is that when two White spotted cats are bred together, the white tends to spread on the offspring creating the Harlequin effect. The proper amount of White is one-third of the cat. A V blaze is desirable on the Bi-Colors --actually an inverted V blaze."

GR.CH. BEIRUT'S HAIL TO REASON was born May 4, 1973. Her sire and dam are CH. ARAHO'S CAVIAR and BEIRUT'S PAINTED LADY, Calico. Grandparents are: GR.CH. MOONSHINE, Smoke, GR. CH. SILVA WYTE SUPER SUDS, White, CH. ARAHO'S CAVIAR and BEIRUT'S MARISHIA, Cream-&-White.

are so noticeable that a successful cat in some European countries would be considered quite incorrect in other parts of the world.

The road to success for a specialist breeder is, therefore, a breeding programme involving selection towards the colouration considered the ideal in his cat fancy community and the simplest method of selection is one where all the kittens considered are of the same point colour. If a breeder likes "milk-chocolate" and "pink-lilac" and breeds with both ideals in mind, he may well obtain a proportion of "plain-chocolate" and "blue-lilac" in his litters.

These are the reasons behind the often-given advice to specialize within one point colour; for the novice or the small breeder the advice is often worth consideration. It is certainly better advice than the suggestion to breed dark-coated Seals to Lilac Points in order to get more contrast. The fact that the Lilac is generally a lighter cat does not insure the retention of lightness in the coat in its Seal Point progeny.

However, there are other considerations than those of colour. More important than anything else are the considerations of health, vitality, fertility and general viability. If these are considered poor in any one colour group, then the best advice of all would be to mate to cats of another colour where better qualities are reported. Rather a healthy mixed litter than a perfect litter of show quality Seals (or Blues, Chocs, Lilacs, etc.) with poor stamina.

When I started breeding Siamese, I had a Lilac Point that was too blue, a Chocolate Point that was too dark and a Blue Point that was too fawn. Only by selection did I achieve improvement and, to help me, I used the method known as The Total Score Method of selection. Once I had more knowledge of breeding and embarked on the making of new varieties, I was able to combine the use of The Total Score Method with manipulation of coat colour genes to achieve the successes I have had with my Foreign Whites and other Orientals. Although, at that time, I was concerned primarily with shorthairs and Siamese, a basic knowledge of the inheritance of the major genes, together with the use of the Total Score Method of selection are all that any breeder of any variety needs to achieve improvement IF his care and management are of a good standard. The Total Score Method of selection is very well described in Roy Robinson's "Genetics For Cat Breeders" and will be the subject of a Study Unit later in the series "College of Cat Genetics".

NEW SIAMESE VARIETIES

The final point I wish to cover in this seminar is one concerned with the term "non-allelism". If a gene is described as allelic to another, then it can be regarded as its alternative. For example, black is allelic to dilution and thus a cat may be either black or dilute. But, if two genes are non-allelic, they are not alternatives and this fact accounts for the Smoked Siamese reported in the article by Roy Robinson and myself. The opinion held on Smokes and Siamese was that they were alternatives and that one could NOT have a cat that was both Smoke AND Siamese. But the appearance of SCINTILLA SMOKE SIGNAL, a Smoked Seal Point Siamese, changed all that. The fact that more kittens followed in the same image proved the point: the gene producing smoke is not an alternative or an allele of Siamese. Thus it is described as "non-allelic". In fact, this has opened the way for a host of new Siamese varieties, the most striking of these to date being the Silvered Chocolate Tabby Point.###

A record number of top felines succeeded in completing the stringent requirements to win CFA Grand Championships or Grand Premierhips during the 1973/1974 show season which ended April 30, 1974. The 255 new Grand Champions and 30 Grand Premiers, together with the superb CFA National Award Winners, are presented in this annual tribute to the 'GREAT CATS OF NORTH AMERICA'.

The Grand Champion parade is led this year by the PERSIAN breed with its 103 representatives including 44 males and 59 females. By division there are 62 Solids (33 m, 29 f); 18 Parti-Colors (1 m, 17 f); 15 Shaded (7 m, 8 f); 5 Tabbies (2 m, 3 f); and 3 Smokes (3 m, 2 f).

SIAMESE were second with 39 new Grands, 29 of whom are females. This group features 16 Seal Points, 11 Blue, 7 Lilac and 5 Chocolate.

The BURMESE breeders came up with 21 Grand Champions (10 m, 11 f) plus the 1974 CFA CAT OF THE YEAR! Mr. and Mrs. Harley Kemp's male, GR.CH. KEMLEN KEOWEE, who won his title a season ago, was accorded the supreme accolade.

In the next three places in the breed rankings are AMERICAN SHORTHAIR (19 Grands);

GR.CH. TABBYLAND'S TRIXIE, 1-year old Silver Tabby f, one of four new Grands bred by Beverly R. Witbeck, Potomac, Md.

RUSSIAN BLUE (17) and ABYSSINIAN (16). This is a boost for the ASH and RB breeders who more than doubled their 1972/1973 season totals and placed higher. Males were dominant in the three breeds: 10 Abys, 14 ASH and 12 Russian Blues.

GR.CH. HY-LINE DR. ZHIVAGO OF TSAR BLU, 1 year old Russian Blue m owned by Donna J. Fuller, Foster City, Ca., was bred by W.B. Palmer who had 4 of his cats Grand last season.

REX is in seventh place with 12 Grand Champions (7 f, 5 m), half of which are White. The HIMALAYAN breed has the eighth spot with 8 Grands of which 6 are females. For both breeds this is a good advance; last year only one Himalayan and three Rex gained the big title.

Ninth is the MANX breed with six new Grands followed by the EXOTIC SHORTHAIRS with five. The latter equalled last year's total but the Manx fanciers had three fewer Grands this season.

Completing the list are: COLORPOINT SHORTHAIR (4 titlists); HAVANA BROWN (3); and KORAT (2).

BALINESE, BIRMAN and TURKISH ANGORA, remaining three breeds recognized by CFA for Championship competition, were not represented by a new Grand this time.

JUNIORS AND SENIORS

The femmes were victorious in the 1973/1974 season outranking the male Grands 140 to 116.

Youngest cat on the list is DOCIA-DAO'S SUPERCAT, Black Smoke Exotic female bred and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Don Yoder, who celebrated her 9-month birthday on April 30. Next youngest is Beverly Witbeck's Red Tabby Persian male, TABBYLAND'S TROOPER, born July 13, 1973. SUPERCAT and TROOPER excelled as kittens and were named CFA National Best Kitten and 3rd Best Kitten respectively.

Most senior in age of the new Grands is SHAWNEE CARBON COPY OF FONGIN, Silver Tabby ASH male bred by Nikki Shuttleworth and owned by Betty Barber: he was born July 12, 1966. Second and third oldest are GRAY-IVY LEGACY OF SILVERPAWS, Chinchilla Silver female born May 6, 1968, and SIM-SAM'S MAGIC MOMENT, Sable Burmese female born June 9, 1968. LEGACY'S breeder/owners are Mrs. Ivan Over and Ruth Walker; Mr. and Mrs. C.E. Mozley bred and own MAGIC MOMENT.

LEADING 'GRAND' CATTERIES

Great honor of being the cattery to produce the most CFA Grand Champions for the past season goes to Evelyn Prather's PRIM-PET whose prefix is carried by five Persians: PRIM-PET BOBBY JOE OF SURREY HILL, PRIM-PET CHANDA OF SURREY HILL, PRIM-PET GOOD LUVIN, PRIM-PET MIRAGE and PRIM-PET RAZZLE DAZZLE.

Two catteries tied for second place with four Grands each: Beverly Witbeck's TABBYLAND (Persians) and William Palmer's HY-LINE (Russian Blues).

GRAND PREMIERS

Grand Premierhips were won last season by 17 Persians, 7 Burmese, 4 Siamese, an American Shorthair and a Colorpoint Shorthair. The list includes twelve males and eighteen females.

Youngest Grand Premier is MISS B, Chocolate Point Siamese female born Dec. 4, 1972, bred and owned by Sharman Lunt. Senior citizen is the ten-year old Chinchilla Silver female, GAR-LE'S DE LUXE OF SOR-LU, bred by Mrs. H. Garrison and owned by Ruth W. Jones.

GR.CH. PRIM PET BOBBY JOE OF SURREY HILL, Blue m, 2 years, owned by Gene Darrah, Akron, Ohio, was bred by Evelyn Prather whose cattery produced the highest number of Grands.

TRULY 'GREAT CATS'

To achieve the highest CFA show title, each one of the new Grands earned a minimum of 150 Grand points at the rate of one point for each Champion (or Premier) defeated as set forth in CFA Show Rules. Before being eligible to earn these points, the cats had to win a CFA Championship or Premiership by being awarded six winners ribbons: this takes a minimum of two shows to accomplish.

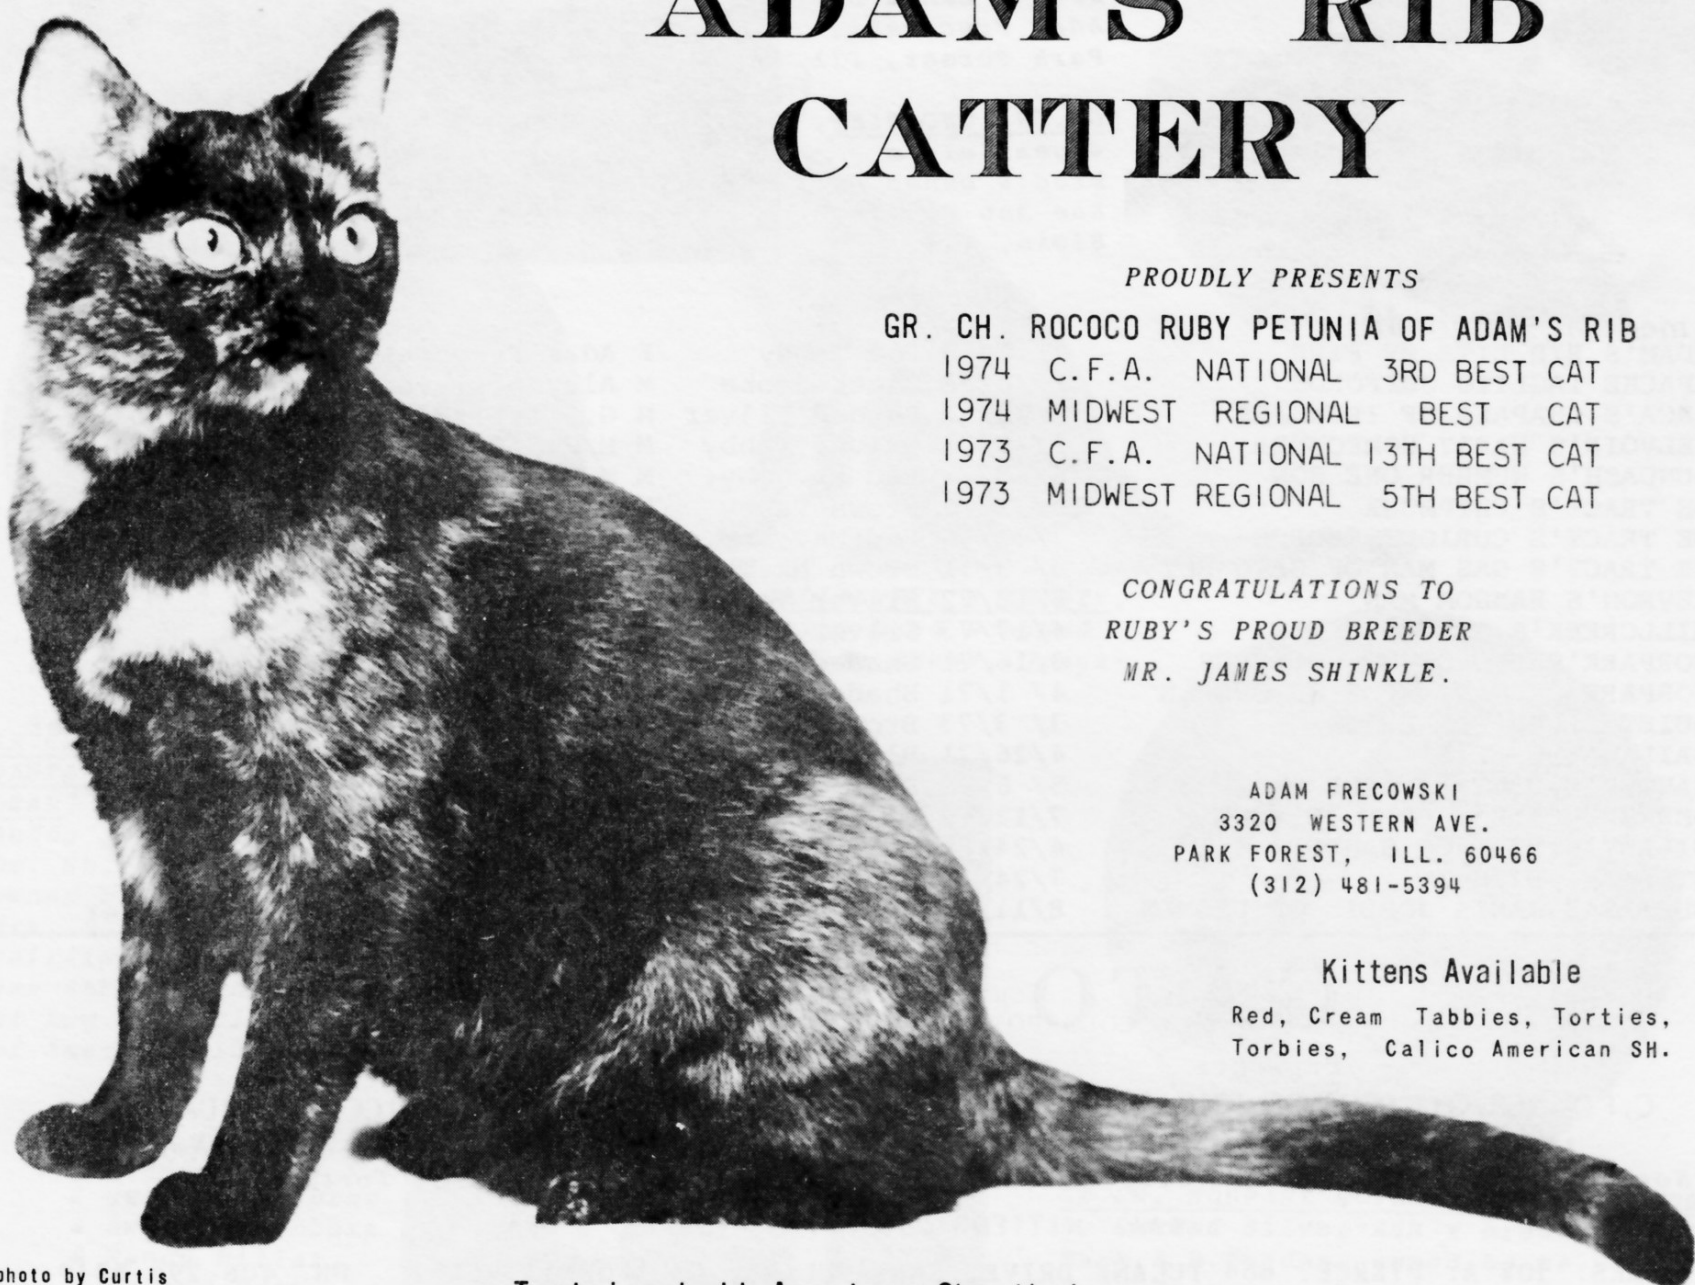

It is a tremendous thrill for a cat's owner to receive the beautiful Certificate proclaiming that his/her cat is now a CFA Grand Champion or Grand Premier. The certificate is sent from the CFA Central Office by special delivery mail, as befits such an important announcement, the week following the show at which the cat attained the 150 point total.

A cat who wins the CFA Grand accolade is a distinguished representative of its breed and a truly worthy 'GREAT CAT OF NORTH AMERICA'.

GROOMING LONGHAIRED CATS

Photography by

by EDNA FIELD

Recently acquired a longhaired kitten? Congratulations! You will enjoy him much more if you know how to groom him: these words are for the novices in the cat fancy who are just starting out with one of the longhaired breeds.

Whether your kitten is a stay-at-home pet or the finest show type, grooming is an every day MUST - all year round - and the amount of time that must be spent on each cat will depend on the length and condition of the hair. Some cats have the 'cottony' type of coat that can sometimes seem to matt overnight even though the cat is just sleeping: these cats require a lot of work to keep their coat free from tangles. Others have hair that is a silky texture and simply require a complete comb through. Whatever type of coat the cat has it must be clean before grooming as an oily coat picks up dust and dirt quickly. Do not hesitate to bathe him, if necessary, dry thoroughly and keep him out of drafts. As a general rule, if daily grooming is observed, an adult cat whose coat is not greasy or dirty can be bathed every other month. Kittens need attention more often. Pre-show bathing, of course, is additional.

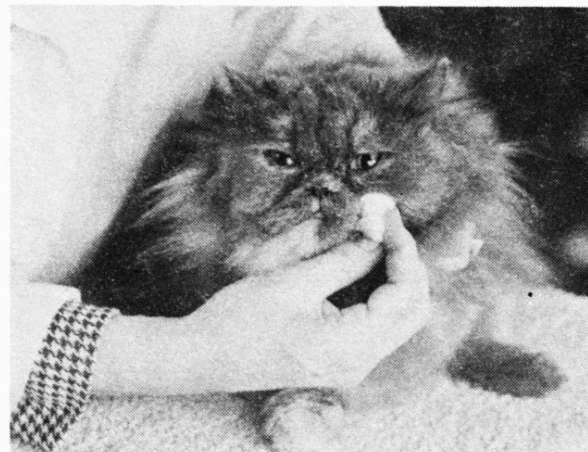

Before you start the daily grooming, assemble the necessary grooming aids: a good steel grooming comb that has teeth of two sizes, a natural-bristle brush, fine talcum powder (unscented or baby powder) or corn starch, a fine-toothed 'face' comb, cotton swabs and Q-tips. Run the steel grooming comb over the inside of your own arm and see if it scratches. If so, do get a different comb. Do not use one that damages the cat's skin and pulls out good hair. A good grooming comb is an investment so get one that has teeth with slightly rounded ends.

BEGIN WITH EYES AND EARS

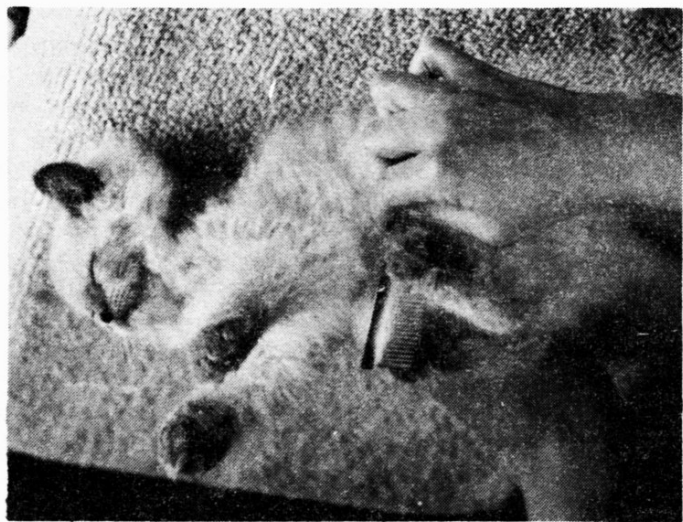

Before starting to groom the coat, the cat's eyes should be wiped gently with cotton swabs moistened with warm water, a different swab for each eye. White and light-colored cats with short noses often have a problem with tearing which can cause staining of the fur around the eyes if not cleaned daily. Ears must be inspected and cleaned very gently with a Q-tip. Any sign of dark extrudate should immediately be checked by your veterinarian for the possibility of ear-mites. Only medication prescribed by your veterinarian should be put in the cat's ears.

Male cats must also be checked carefully for urine stains and kept scrupulously clean. Many cats have a greasy area at the base of the tail which may have to be washed with a gentle detergent or medicated soap, rinsed well, dried and powdered daily to keep the condition under control.

Trim the cat's claws, front and back, being sure to trim only the very tip of the claw. Be careful not to cut down into the vein area as this will be painful. Claw clippers can be purchased very reasonably and, if claw clipping is started when young, cats seldom object to having this done. While you are working with the feet, check to see if a wad of hair has formed between the toes as this can cause the cat a great deal of discomfort. If one has formed, clip the matt carefully close to the skin and remove.

COMBING

Stand the cat on a firm table at a convenient height and place a towel or blanket under him so that he will feel secure and not in danger of sliding off the table.

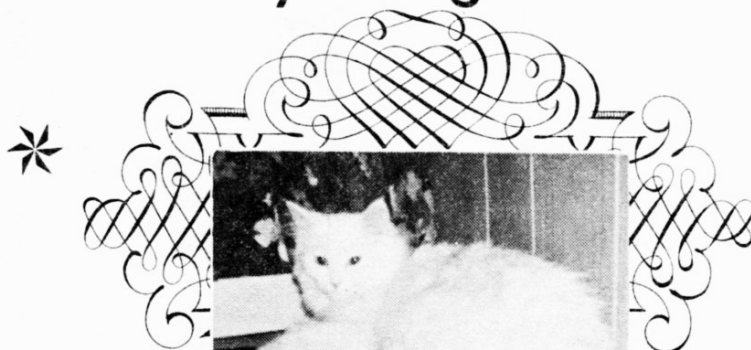

Start with the wider-spaced teeth in the grooming comb and run it lightly down the cat's head and around his ears. Lift the head gently and comb under the chin, down the ruff and chest, continuing on with the back, sides and tail. He will be enjoying this, but don't forget that the undersides are just as important and need equal attention. Many kittens, if started when young, will learn to lie on their back and allow the chest, stomach and inside of legs to be combed, but just as many object strenuously to this and will not cooperate. If yours is one of the latter and you find, after a fair trial, that this will not work, you must find an alternate method to groom these areas, as it is not worth upsetting the kitten by fighting with him and having him resent the grooming sessions. Try lifting one leg at a time and gently comb the inside fur, then the stomach and chest. Remember that the undersides, insides of legs and under the tail are sensitive areas, so be extra careful with that comb, especially with males.

After you have combed the cat through completely with the widely spaced teeth to remove any tangles, turn the comb around and comb him again using the narrowly spaced teeth. This will remove dead hair. Use a 'face' comb with extra fine teeth to comb around the head and ears.

Sprinkle baby powder or corn starch lightly over the whole coat and brush it thoroughly through the hair. Brush the coat in the opposite direction to which it grows naturally and keep brushing lightly until all the powder has been removed. This will help to separate the hair and encourage it to stand off from the body. Brush or comb the ruff up around the face until it forms an 'Elizabethan collar'. Do not use a nylon bristle brush as it will break the hair and cause static. Hold the tip of the tail gently and comb the hair lightly towards the body until it stands out from all sides and forms a good 'brush'.

REMOVING MATTS

What do you do if there is a matt of fur in spite of your efforts? If it is a small one, try to loosen it first with your fingers, gently pulling it apart from the tip, then work at it with the edge of the comb. If it just cannot be combed out, it may need to be snipped out with blunt-nosed scissors, but be very careful not to cut the skin. It is best not to use scissors with sharp points as the cat can move fast and easily be injured by the points..

When you groom, be sure that you comb right through the coat and not just the surface hair. It is most important to remove all the dead hair or it can form a solid mattress which will have to be removed by clipping off completely: it might even result in a trip to the veterinarian so that removal can be done while the cat is under an anesthetic.

Keep the grooming session short if the fur is tangled and give the cat a rest. Talk to him as you groom and tell him how fine he will look!

Once the novice groomer has become proficient at the task, the daily session should take ten to fifteen minutes depending upon the length and condition of the coat.

PREPARING FOR SHOW

For that finished look when preparing your cat for show, tidy up the Persian's ears by removing the little tufts of hair that grow on the very tip of the ear. These can just be pinched off to leave a nice neat rounded appearance to the ear. This does not, of course, refer to the tufts growing from INSIDE the ear! The hair growing at the very tip of the tail can also be tidied up by breaking off the hair a little at a time, leaving it about an inch longer than the tail itself. DO NOT CUT THE HAIR.

I like to bathe my longhaired cats the day before I leave for a show so that they will truly look their best. I prefer to start grooming after the bath when the coat is still slightly damp, using a small blower-type hair dryer in one hand and a comb in the other.

Hold the blower about a foot away from the cat and, as the fur is fluffed, comb it through lightly. If the cat won't stand still for this, either prop up the dryer so that the warm air blows on the cat as you hold him with one hand and comb with the other, or have someone else hold him for you. Don't forget the undersides and legs: these usually take longer to dry, but don't leave the air blowing too hot. Work a little powder into the coat and continue to blow dry and comb until the cat is completely dry. Do not use a brush while the coat is still damp.

Take along your grooming kit to the show complete with all the things you use at home, including the little hair dryer in case of accidents! Good presentation and cleanliness are required at all times in the show ring and if you have faithfully groomed and cleaned every day, your cat will not need much extra work for a show. Most experienced exhibitors have their own little grooming 'tricks' but all will agree that you cannot prepare a cat for a show just days - or even weeks - before a show. A little time spent every day on your cat will soon pay off and he will rapidly adjust to a daily routine which can be an enjoyable time for both of you.

No powdering should be necessary at the show but, if it should be required, add very little to the coat and then brush it ALL out. Powder in the coat can be a cause for disqualification from competition.

Now that your nice, clean cat has been well-groomed and is free from even the smallest knot, you may find that the coat does not stand off from the body as you would like it to. Try a grooming aid such as Labco coat dressing. This is a mild alcohol-base liquid that can be placed in a squirt-type plastic bottle with a nozzle turned to produce a fine mist. Spray the cat VERY LIGHTLY - head, back and undersides - protecting the eyes with your hand. Then comb and 'flip' the lightly dampened hair until it dries, as it will in about 30 seconds. This helps the fur stand out from the body and reduces static in the coat.

Your cat is now looking a perfect picture with every hair in place. How do you get him up to the judge's ring without mussing him? No doubt you have seen exhibitors carrying their longhairs in one hand held high above their heads, battling their way through the crowds of spectators. Well, some cats will tolerate this, but the majority prefer to feel secure and protected by being held firmly with both hands, or even tucked under an arm. As an exhibitor, I hold my cats closely to me on the way to the judging ring and prefer to get them there safely with a few hairs out of place. As a judge, it matters only to me that the cat has been presented clean, well-groomed and calm!

EXTRA TIPS

Watch 'old-timers' groom their cats at the show. Often they will be glad to pass along tips to a novice exhibitor.

The Tabby varieties of longhairs are groomed in a different fashion as the hair is not required to stand out from the body but rather to lie flat to show off the markings. No powder is used but a little commercial coat dressing can help to bring out the shine and lustre of the coat.

Himalayan, Birman and Balinese exhibitors, do watch that your cats are not presented in the show ring with powder marks on their 'points'! Often novice exhibitors will powder their cat, try to brush it all out of the body coat, but completely overlook the this way by harsh grooming practice. If a cat has to be forcibly restrained by one person and fiercely groomed by another to get him in show condition, forget it! He will eventually dislike being handled by everyone, as he will be sore to the touch from the pulling and tugging on his sensitive skin and he will be suspicious of all who handle him. Better to clip him down and leave him at home as a breeder.

When a cat starts to lose his winter coat and the dead hair is shedding heavily, it is often a good idea to clip his coat short, leaving it an inch or two long. This helps in several ways: it reduces the chance of him getting hairballs by constantly licking at his falling coat; it will keep him cooler in the warm weather and still gives his coat plenty of time to grow in nice and evenly before the colder weather returns. Nevertheless, you should still be prepared to go through the daily grooming routine to keep up the good habit. Do not clip the tail hair though, as this takes a very long time to grow.

SHOWMANSHIP (CONTD. FROM P. 16)

a few meetings of neighboring clubs; be aware, at the shows, which exhibitors belong to what other clubs; subscribe to national or regional magazines or newsletters where show schedules are given. The better-informed you make yourselves as a club, the smoother you will find the cat fancy: determining future show dates will simply be a matter of Reading, Writing and Asking! Try to plan in advance with the CLUB MEMBERS, the EXHIBITORS and the PUBLIC in mind and you're one step ahead of the other shows who don't!###

Mr. Fix is author of 'Cat Show Manual'. Copies are available ($3.95 + 60¢ for 1st class mail) from 101 Highland Ave., San Carlos, Ca. 94070.

INTERESTED IN CAT BOOKS

I am very pleased with my subscription to your excellent magazine. I also read 5 other magazines (American and European) but yours is the very best!

In one of the back issues was a list of cat books. I would love to have 'Fifty Years of Pedigree Cats' and 'Royal Cat of Siam'. I have a collection of about 50 cat books and would love to have these two in it.

Mr. A. Peijen, Zonnebloemstraat 23, Goes 3600, Holland.

Editors' comment: CW is no longer taking book orders. We suggest book-lovers write for a list of cat books to: Miss Jean Pratt, The Little Bookshop, Farnham Common, Bucks. SL2-2QH, England.

This is not only a 'how-to' book, it also tells 'why' using the personal experiences of its author. Mrs. Harding is adamant that the breed can only progress to its fullest when it is unhampered by legislation.

Many helpful ideas are passed to the reader concerning proper diet and maintenance of the Himalayan, mating, pregnancy, kittening, etc.

Mrs. Harding further explains the points she is making by directing readers' attention to the numerous charts and sixty photographs (including a selection in color).
