CLUB EXPANSION

Over the past months ACFA has enjoyed a steady increase in its Club affiliates throughout the world, with Clubs now in 5 different countries.

International Division

England: With the formation of the United Kingdom All-breed Cat Club, ACFA opened up an entirely new area of service. This most active group is already working on the expansion of more ACFA Clubs in England - and - starting their initial planning for the "first" ACFA show in that country, scheduled for 1983. For those CWI readers in England who would like to obtain more information about ACFA, contact: Lulu D. Rowley, Ringland Lane, Old Costessey, Norwich. Tel: 0603 742578.

Germany: Another new area recently to be served by ACFA, work is progressing well for the expansion on the Continent. As this issue of CWI is going to press, ACFA has their Liaison Representative in Germany meeting with their local Club and German ACFA Members. Upon her return to the US, we will have more to report on these activities.

Japan: The largest expansion within the International Division over the past months has been in the Far East. In the past 9 months, 5 new Clubs have been Chartered, 2 in the City of Hiroshima, one in Sapporo, one in Chiba and another in Osaka. Added to those Clubs already in Japan, our ACFA members in this area will have a wide variety of Shows to attend. Two of these new Clubs have already sponsored their first ACFA Championship Show and two others will be having their first Shows in October.

North America

Since the summer of 1980 ACFA has chartered 49 new Clubs in 7 of its 8 North American Regions. Of these, over 65% have sponsored, or have scheduled, their "first" ACFA Show. This average of over two new Clubs chartered each month has been a steady, and predictable, pace. Contact ACFA for information to form a club in your area.

NEW OFFICES FOR ACFA

With the continued increase in business being experienced by ACFA, the Summer of 1982 saw a need for larger Office facilities. They had just "outgrown" the old building. The result, a move to a new building. It had been hoped such a move could be delayed until they moved to their own building planned to be constructed in the near future. However, such was not the case and new "temporary" yet larger facilities were leased in Missouri. The entire move was accomplished in one week-end, with Monday being business as usual for the staff. There was no loss of time and no delay in maintaining the 24-72 hour service to their customers, still maintaining their reputation as #1 in Service to the Cat Fancy. The new building is only 5 miles from their previous location. The mailing address and phone numbers have remained the same.

ACFA BUILDING FUND

As mentioned, ACFA's present facilities, though new to them, are only temporary. It is hoped they will again be moving within the next 12 months: this time to their own, newly constructed Office Building. They now have 78% of the required funds for this project, either on hand or pledged by investors. This places them only 22% short of their goal of 100% of construction funds on hand to officially "break ground". What is unique about this project is there will not be a bank mortgage on the building. The ACFA Office Building will be solely owned by the Association and its Member/Investors.

DATA PROCESSING

With the present office building, ACFA has the room to expand and establish their new Data Processing Center. They are now "on-line" with an IBM 4331, representing some of the latest in computer technology. However, with the increased use of Data Processing, ACFA guarantees their customers will still have the same personalized service - person-to-person, not person-to-computer.

EXPERIENCE COUNTS: Although ACFA has been around for over 28 years, it does not live on its laurels. Those years provide experience - experience on which to base continued progress and innovations to the Cat Fancy.

FIRST ANNUAL INTERNATIONAL COVER CONTEST & GALLERY FOR NEUTER/SPAY CATS

From the photos you send in — and you may send as many photographs and reproduction fees as you wish, no limit — one will be selected for the JANUARY/FEBRUARY cover! This may be a photo of an individual cat, or it may be a group of cats (no people). The Runners-Up in each category will be displayed at the front of the Gallery in beautiful, individual frames. Advertisements will be run in the Gallery pages as close to your photo(s) as possible and the entire collection will form an International Presentation!

Note: Because it is the most widely understood, we are using the term 'Alter' for Neuter & Spay cats whose photos are solicited for this Contest.

ELIGIBLE ARE: ALTERED (desexed) CATS, REGISTERED IN ANY ASSOCIATION IN ANY COUNTRY, WHO HAVE BEEN SHOWN OR ARE CURRENTLY BEING SHOWN. ENTRANTS MAY BE OF ALL AGES.

From the photos you send in — and you may send in as many photographs & reproduction fees as you wish, no limit — one will be selected for the JANUARY/FEBRUARY COVER! This may be a photo of an individual cat, or it may be a group of cats (no people). The Runners-Up in each category will be displayed at the front of the Gallery in beautiful, individual frames. Advertisements will be run in the Gallery pages and the entire collection will form an International Presentation!

Your photo (or photos) will be published in the January/February issue, captioned with name, sex, breed and/or color, name of owner, city & country, and name(s) of Association(s) in which the cat is registered - an added display advertisement gives you the space to tell about your cattery, cats/kittens/stud service, to appear as close to your photo entry as possible

SOME HINTS ABOUT PHOTO ELIGIBILITY

The COVER CAT(S) photo must be one that would make you want to "buy the magazine so you can read all about the cover cat(s)". Consideration is given to beauty of expression and presentation (happiness, health & care) as well as to "cover appeal". The best care will be taken of photos but we cannot be held responsible for them. Black & White glossy photos (up to 5" x 7") reproduce best. No polaroids, please! Color photos with good contrast are acceptable, however, we take no responsibility for loss of quality in reproduction. If you must send a color transparency, please add US$4. or UK£2.50 to your remittance and allow extra time for processing. Please do not send more than one photo pr entry - we cannot pre-select for you.

Cover photos must be of professional quality. This does not imply they must be professionally photographed. Some very fine photos are taken by amateurs. Photos must be in sharp focus and taken with good lighting. A good way to get a relaxed photo of your cat is to do as some baby photographers do — seat yourself, cover your lap and torso with plain cloth and gently "cradle" your cat with your hands concealed by the cloth. Avoid photos where the eyes have reflected the flash, try to have the cat looking directly out of the picture, don't hold the feather or other lure too high, and please no red cats against black backgrounds, black against red - avoid red backgrounds altogether — and no mixed color cats against patterned, cluttered or busy backgrounds. Plain backgrounds are best.

Please do not write directly on the back of any photo. Write or type on a label or piece of paper and let the ink dry before you affix the label to the back of the photo. Please do not cut or mark your photo in any way. Each photo must be labeled with the cat's name and your name and address. Your photos will be returned if you send a self-addressed envelope, stamped to cover cost of return — or postage may be included in your remittance.

THEORIES

by Thea de Vos

VITAMIN A TOXICITY

Breeders who custom mix their cats' diets should familiarize themselves with symptoms associated with vitamin A toxicity since this vitamin is cited as the most frequently overdosed in cat diets. Such symptoms were recently described in an article by K.C. Hayess. The following is excerpted from Nutritional Problems in Cats: Taurine Deficiency and Vitamin A Excess. (Canadian Veterinary Journal 23: 2-5, January 1982).

(Words in parentheses are simple interpretations of medical terms added for your convenience. Your medical dictionary will provide a more accurate and detailed explanation.)

"Affected cats typically develop stiffness and soreness of muscle, hyperkinesia (abnormally increased activity), and extreme tenderness of joints, including the cervical skeleton. The latter is associated with bony exostoses (bony growth projected outside of the surface of the bone) that develop along the muscular insertions of the cervical vertebrae, ribs, and long bones of the fore limbs. The condition is usually accompanied by anorexia (loss of appetite), weight loss, exophthalmia (condition which pushes the eyeball forward), and unkempt appearance and may lead to moist eczema, alopecia, cracking scaly dermatitis, ascites (accumulation of fluid in the abdominal cavity) and death. Livers from affected cats may concentrate vitamin A at extraordinary levels... compared to the normal. Deforming cervical spondylosis (degenerative disease of joints affecting the vertebrae) can be a crippling clinical entity in cats from two to nine years of age."

The investigators also produced a syndrome in weanling kittens by feeding vitamin A at a level of 20,000 — 30,000 micrograms per kilogram of body weight per day for six months. This is 100 times the normal intake but not far off that which could accidentally be fed a cat. At lower doses of vitamin A, cervical spondylosis, alone, without other side effects, may be the only clinical sign of vitamin A toxicity. Removing vitamin A from the diet tends to ameliorate the toxic signs, including the peculiar sensitivity of the cervical skeleton to palpation.

I am lucky. My pharmacist is a joy. Forever taking time to explain, in detail, an endless stream of technical questions in the simplest terms. A question about the labeling on a bottle of pediatric nose drops which instructed that the drops should not be used for more than three days in succession, brought this explanation: The nose drops work by drying the mucous membranes within the nose of the cat, infant, etc. After three days the dryness causes minute scars to form on the lining of the nose. Bacteria grows and accumulates behind these scars and the scars prevent medication from reaching the bacteria. The problem thus becomes more difficult to handle than the original runny nose.

My present veterinarian, too, is one of those nice people whom you immediately take a liking to. Young, exceedingly bright, knowledgeable about the cat and always up on the latest research. He is also not afraid to ask questions from experts or, if necessary, from cat breeders, when he is confronted with a problem with which he is not familiar. His most admirable quality is, however, his ability to not lay guilt trips on his cat breeder clients, although, heaven knows, the atrocities we inflict on our cats in the name of "breeding to standard" defy defence. I felt more than comfortable with a veterinarian who watched the noses on my Himalayans and Persians get shorter and shorter, but who never commented on this fact. . . . Until a recent visit in which he was examining the second cat brought to him with an upper respiratory problem. "Mmmmm....." I heard him mutter, "Perhaps if I drilled holes in the upper lips and attached little iron weights it would help open the nostrils a little more." He may not have intended criticism, but I AM taking a second look at my breeding program. . . .

GENERAL: The ideal Siamese is a medium sized, svelte, refined cat with long tapering lines, very lithe but muscular. Males may be proportionately larger.

The CFA standard states as GENERAL that the Siamese is a medium-sized, svelte, refined cat with long, tapering lines, very lithe but muscular, with males allowed to be proportionately larger. Note that in this description of the Siamese, the head is not even mentioned.

HEAD: Long tapering wedge. Medium size in good proportion to body. The total wedge starts at the nose and flares out in straight lines to the tips of the ears forming a triangle, with no break at the whiskers. No less than the width of an eye between the eyes. When the whiskers are smoothed back the underlying bone structure is apparent. Allowance must be made for jowls in the stud cat.

HEAD: It is stated that the total wedge starts at the nose and flares out in straight lines to the tips of the ears forming a triangle with no break at the whiskers. A triangle should not be interpreted as a "snake head" which allows for little or no width about the eyes. And whisker breaks are now almost commonplace. . . .the clean, straight lines of the triangle are being ignored in the

One of the authors recently took her Sealpoint Siamese female to a local cat show. One of the four judges who put the cat up made the comment that it was so nice to see an "old girl" in such beautiful condition that she was worthy of being in the Finals at such an age. The cat was one month short of being three years old!

A well-known columnist-judge stated, in an article in a U.S. cat publication that many show Siamese are dead by the age of two. Incidents such as these point out only too clearly what is happening to our wonderful breed. Remember the classes of 15 or 20 years ago, when there might be 20 sealpoint Siamese male novices, not to mention overall classes of 50 to 75 Siamese in a show! Now, classes of 6 or 7 are commonplace in some areas while 20 is a large Siamese class. Have you ever wondered why Siamese classes are dwindling? Could it be too much attention to extremes and not enough attention to the balanced, healthy cat?

Often the breeders — and equally often the judges — become "headhunters". A long head becomes the beginning and end-all of a Siamese, regardless of the fact that that same head may have a dip, a whisker break, and be set on a mushy body that is incompatible with the head length. Too often the hardy, balanced cat of a litter is put aside in favor of this extreme cat who, from the time of birth, is not truly healthy. True, this extreme animal may take the "Best in Show" wins over its balanced brother, but how often are the national or regional awards made posthumously? So, to preserve the Siamese breed, both the breeders and the judges MUST share the responsibility of bringing back the balanced Siamese.

What, then, is a balanced Siamese?

(Note: The Siamese standard in The Cat Fanciers Association, Inc. is quoted here. Study of the standards for the U.S. Associations revealed only a few differences. . . The Authors)

Prince remains hardy and healthy at age 7 years. He combines the Kor-Di' and Shar-Jem lines.

quest for the longer head. In the standards in at least two associations, it is stated that whiskers should be smoothed back to determine underlying bone structure, an excellent judging procedure which, unfortunately, is seldom practiced.

SKULL: Flat. In profile, a long straight line is seen from the top of the head to the tip of the nose. No bulge over eyes. No dip in nose.

SKULL: Another interpretation of a standard (or, in this case, five of them — CFA, ACFA, TICA, UCF and ACA) seems to be taken straight from left field. Without exception, all these standards desire a profile that is a long straight line from the top of the head to the tip of the nose.

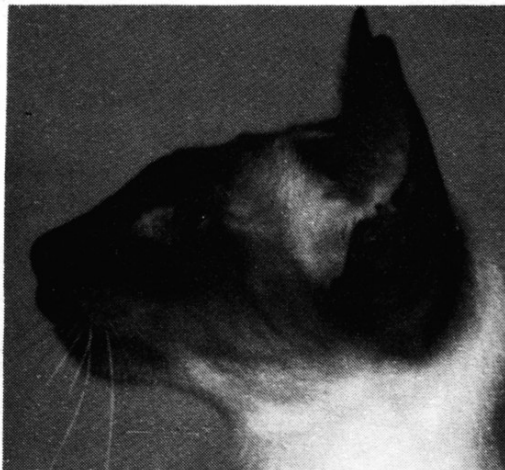

Gr Ch Kor-Di' Kingopurrs (age 10) displays the one-plane profile.

This poses the question, then, of where does the two-plane profile come in? The two-plane profile has one straight line from the top of the head to a point usually about midway above the eyes, and then another straight line from this above the eye point to the tip of the nose. This has become fully acceptable and yet is difficult to understand how when the standards are so much in agreement on the single straight line.

M Gr Ch & Dbl Gr Ch Tuf'y Cats Monique of Kor-Di (age 3½) shows the two-plane profile.

EARS: Strikingly large, pointed, wide at base; continuing the lines of the wedge.

Siamese ears are frequently too small for the cat they are on. The ears are a continuation of the triangle and should be quite large and flaring.

EYES: Almond shaped. Medium size. Neither protruding nor recessed. Slanted towards the nose in harmony with lines of wedge and ears. Uncrossed.

Round-eyed Siamese are an unfortunate reality of the show circuit. The deep, vivid blue eyes of the Siamese cat should be almond shaped and slanted toward the nose, parallel to the lines of the wedge.

NOSE: Long and straight. A continuation of the forehead with no break.

MUZZLE: Fine, wedge-shaped.

CHIN AND JAW: Medium size. Tip of chin lines up with tip of nose in the same vertical plane. Neither receding nor excessively massive.

An overshot or undershot jaw is as undesirable on a Siamese as it is on a Persian. The tip of the chin should line up to the tip of the nose in a perpendicular line.

BODY: Medium size. Dainty, long and svelte. A distinctive combination of fine bones and firm muscles. Shoulders and hips continue same sleek lines of tubular body. Hips never wider than shoulders. Abdomen tight.

The body of the show Siamese should be tight and tubular, carrying the thought that tubes may be any size in proportion to the total cat. The muscle tone which brings the tightness to the body is, of course, the result of an adequate diet and the availability of exercise for the animal. The body must not be mushy or flabby. For some reason known only to God — who must deplore it — and the breeders in question, "svelte" and "lithe" are words frequently interpreted as "skinny" or "emaciated". So sadly, and so often, the show Siamese badly needs not one but several square meals! Starving a Siamese does not bring the needed body type; a consistent, well-balanced diet of adequate portions is a necessity for the ideal Siamese. With such a diet, svelte, refined and lithe, along with muscular become the norm. Obviously, a well balanced, refined kitten is the first requisite, but an adequate diet certainly is the second. And could the grouchy, crabby Siamese seen only too frequently in the show rings today be that way only because their misguided owners do not feed them properly or enough?

Boning is extremely fine. The female will carry finer boning than the male cat but neither should be coarse. The well-balanced diet will maintain the genetic fine boning of the Siamese while an inadequate diet will coarsen it.

NECK: Long and slender.

LEGS: Long and slim. Hind legs higher than front. In good proportion to body.

The legs of the Siamese are long and slim with the hind legs higher than the forelegs. The haunches should reflect the good muscle tone of the entire body. Another judging procedure too often ignored is checking for weak hind legs, a disqualification in the CFA standard.

PAWS: Dainty, small, and oval. Toes, five in front and four behind.

TAIL: Long, thin, tapering to a fine point.

The blunt-ended tail is also seen frequently and is undesirable. The tail should be long, thin and pointed at the end, free of any kinks.

COAT: Short, fine textured, glossy. Lying close to body.

CONDITION: Excellent physical condition. Eyes clear. Muscular, strong, and lithe. Neither flabby nor boney. Not fat.

COLOR: Body: Even, with subtle shading when allowed. Allowance should be made for darker color in older cats as Siamese generally darken with age, but there must be definite contrast between body color and points. Points: Mask, ears, legs, feet, tail dense and clearly defined. All of the same shade. Mask covers entire face including whisker pads and is connected to ears by tracings. Mask should not extend over the top of the head. No ticking or white hairs in points.

Color is always secondary to type. However, many color faults are being perpetuated in the Siamese breed. These include the "butterfly" (incomplete coloring around the mouth and chin area), points which do not match in color or intensity, and "neither-nors". A "neither-nor" is a cat which is shown as a chocolate or a lilac when it is truly only a bad seal or blue. Paw pads and nose leather also must be compatible with the body color. Seal points should be even pale fawn to cream with deep seal brown points, nose leather and paw pads. Chocolate points have ivory bodies without shading and milk-chocolate points and cinnamon pink nose leather and paw pads. Blue points are bluish white shading to white with deep blue points and slate-colored paw pads and nose leather. Lilac points have glacial white unshaded bodies with frosty grey points with a pinkish tone. Their nose leather and paw pads are a lavender pink.

PENALIZE: Improper (i.e., off-color or spotted) nose leather or paw pads. Soft or mushy body.

DISQUALIFY: Any evidence of illness or poor health. Weak hind legs. Mouth breathing due to nasal obstruction or poor occlusion. Emaciation. Visible kink. Eyes other than blue. White toes and/or feet. Incorrect number of toes. Malocclusion resulting in either undershot or overshot chin.

Perhaps a paragraph in the ACFA and TICA standards best sums up the truly lovely Siamese. They state that the Siamese is "well balanced physically and temperamentally". They should be "gentle and amenable to handling". "The overall appearance should be that of a well-balanced Siamese cat. The cat should 'fit together', if extreme in one part, all parts should be extreme or it is out of balance. Balance is the OVERALL PICTURE OF THE CAT physically, not emphasizing any one particular quality."

If all judges and breeders would enshrine that in their hearts, our beautiful Siamese breed might again reach its full flowering.

ULTIMATE CAT

...Into our lives, if we are very fortunate, and if we are tuned in, there comes at least one very, very special cat. Sometimes, he or she is your (or my) cat. Or we see one of these unforgettable creatures in our travels. Here, Stella Slabber shares with us her joy in her Chinchilla Persians — among whom are —

◁ CHÉRIE DEAR NIKI, Chinchilla Male

and his grandmother, bred by Dr. & Mrs. P. N. Ramsdale,

GR CH CHERIE DEARHEART JENNIFER, Imp. ▷

Doreen Paitaki, in her report on the occasion of the Supreme award, had this to say about him: "Looking every inch the Supreme Champion that he is. Beautiful conformation. Large head with lovely wide green eyes. Coat colour and texture, excellent. A nature to match his looks and a pleasure to judge." Niki obtained no fewer than 8 trophies at this last show, a gold Supreme medal and several large rosettes, including one donated by Durham County Cat Club from America.

Dear Niki's sire is CH Chérie Alexis who is a son of my first pair which I imported: CH Chérie Dearheart Alexander Imp. and GR CH Chérie Dearheart Jennifer Imp. His dam is Chérie Chansonette, a daughter of my second pair of imports: GR CH Chérie Dearheart Daniele Imp. and CH Chérie Dearheart Chantilly Imp.

During 1981 my latest Grand Championship was obtained by GR CH Dearheart Nicholas Imp. and, starting off on his own young show career is CH Chérie Dearheart Merlin Imp.

Niki's progeny are doing equally well. Two daughters, Chérie Siba Muluk and Chérie Simonette, and son Chérie Shah In Shah became champions during 1981.

▷ Niki's grandmother, GR CH Chérie Dearheart Jenni-

I started importing Chinchilla cats from Jeanne Ramsdale, (DEARHEART Silvers), of Long Beach, California, as far back as 1970. My CHÉRIE cattery is based purely on these Dearheart/Beverley-Serrano bloodlines, with undeniable success.

I am very proud and grateful that no solid colours have ever been bred into my chinchillas and it must surely be of interest to other dedicated breeders of these beautiful cats that, in all these years, no kittens have been produced with other colours, specifically no "goldens". It is sad to see many winners pictured looking like solid color persians in type, with weepy eyes and squashed-in faces, instead of the smiling baby-doll faces so typical of the chinchillas.

Supreme Grand Champion Chérie Dear Niki achieved his great honour at the All Breeds Cat Club Championship Show on 27th March, 1982 at the Pavilion, Muizenberg, Cape Province, here in the Republic of South Africa. This was the crowning achievement of his very exciting show career, included in his grande finale, being again, for the third time, Best Cat in Show.

Niki has had a meteoric rise to fame. As a kitten he showed great promise, being truly cobby from birth, with a round head and wide cheeks. A great future was foretold by all cat fanciers who saw him. He became champion in the minimum time possible, having obtained his 3 Challenge Certificates in the first 3 shows he attended. He obtained his Grand Championship in like manner and was Best LH Adult 7 times and Best Cat in Show 3 times. One of his most exciting titles was Cat of the Year, 1980. As he has now won everything it is possible for him to win, if he were to attend another show, it would have to be 'For Exhibition Only'. The awarding judge, Mrs.

fer, S. Africa's first Grand Champion, has obtained no fewer than 13 S.C.'s but these did not count because, until recently, three grand champions had to be present to compete in the class before the award could count.

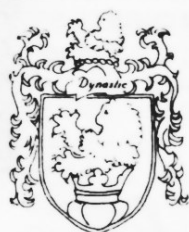

Thus it is that Niki has stolen a march on his famous grandmother. Also we must take into consideration that queens have motherhood duties which interfere with their show careers. Jennie needs one more S.C.C. to be another Supreme Champion. Her story appeared in CWI Jan/Feb. '75. She is nearly 12 years of age and as beautiful as ever.

To become a Supreme Champion, a cat has first to acquire his Championship status. This takes a minimum of 3 shows as each C.C. has to be given by a different judge. The cat is then eligible to compete in the grand champion class at the next 3 shows and win first place and a G.C.C. to become a Grand Champion. Only then is he allowed to compete in the Supreme class. The winner of the Supreme class and, indeed, of any of the foregoing classes, is not necessarily awarded his C.C., G.C.C. or S.C.C. Three judges are involved in this final judging which is conducted in silence and only if the points total the amount required, i.e. 93%, is the award made. Three S.C.C. will make the cat a Supreme Champion.

My very sincere and grateful thanks to the DEARHEART breeder, Jeanne Ramsdale, for making this all "come true"! Without her dedication, I certainly would never have achieved this success, nor would I have been able to carry on with her dedicated breeding career here, on the other side of the world.

Stella Slabber,
8 Avenue Bernard,
Southfield, Cape Prov., 7800 Rep. of S.Africa.

The arrival of premature kittens into a family once in a lifetime is a big enough shock but to have to go through the problem twice in just over one year is rather startling, to say the least. Many inquiries were made after the first event, but to no avail — it appeared that there had been nothing written on premature infants, as the kittens were either dead on arrival, had succumbed soon after arrival, or noone bothered about them very much, and they died anyway. So, now, the problem has again arisen and, when one really gets into it, it is not as complex as it first appeared.

If the kittens are thrust into the world BEFORE 55 days' gestation, chances of survival are slim indeed. The infants are still in a rather embryonic stage and are difficult to handle. From 56 days onwards, survival chances increase daily, and they show rapid development. Before going further, it is interesting to note that the first premature litter we dealt with were born at 56 days, a litter of 5. From these, 2 succumbed to Hypothermia (loss of body heat through too much handling), and the remaining three thrived and were as normal kittens. The second litter was born at 55 days. The dam disposed of one kitten very quickly after birth; the other surviving for 36 hours, then succumbing to unknown causes.

Heat Requirements: Prolonged and constant heat must be provided at all times. If needed, kittens must not be removed from the heated atmosphere, even for feeding. 'Kitten Pet Pads' are ideal for controlling heat, and a wall heater within the nursery will provide external warmth of approx. 20°C. Hypothermia risks are intense in these kittens.

Living Quarters: The premature infant MUST be completely isolated from all other beings — human as well as feline. As it really takes two humans to care for these kittens, those persons MUST be the ONLY persons allowed near. If the litter is born into a family situation, i.e. children, etc., the family MUST gear itself into providing quiet surroundings, with no disturbances for the premature infants.

Sterility: Extreme care must be taken to keep the kittens' living quarters and the surrounding areas as sterile as is possible. Use of 'Halamid' (Fungicide, Virucide and Bactericide) fits the requirements nicely. Persons caring for the litter must also take extreme precautions by using same for hands, etc., and by wearing a mask over the face, if possible, when attending to the kittens.

Feeding: It is not the quantity of food that will aid the prem kitten, but rather the quality. The most satisfactory mixture found by this writer is as follows:

- 1 tsp. Glucose
- 1 tsp. 'Complan'
- Small cup 'Lactol' milk mixture

Feed this mixture every 3 - 4 hours, day and night, beginning at ½ ml. per feed, and remaining at that level until the kitten itself wants to take more. Increase amount as required.

Burping and Removal of Waste Products: This is, of course, a job the human has to do for the infant. After each feeding, place some vegetable oil on one finger and, gently but firmly, massage the chest area. Any wind withheld within the kitten will be promptly expelled. Toileting is carried out in the same manner, only we found it better to do the job using cottonwool soaked in the oil. The use of vegetable oil serves two purposes. . . a) It is gentle and soothing upon the kitten's skin, and b) It provides oil for the skin as this dries out rapidly due to the constant high heat that is being provided.

Weight checks: Although one dearly wants to ascertain just what progress is being made, it is more important to allow the kittens peace and quiet, rest and sleep. A close 'eye' check, and being able to judge progress by the 'feel' of the kitten in your hand at feed times should be enough to put your mind at rest. When the kitten is one week old, by all means weigh in the correct manner, still being aware that you take the risk of quickly ensuing Hypothermia, so don't keep the kitten away from the heat for too long.

Progress: Progression for the premature kitten is the same as for kittens born at the normal time. As the eyes begin to open, progressively darkened shade should be provided, and kept at a rather dark level until the kittens' eyes are accustomed to the surroundings. We found it a simple matter to tape cottonwool over the eye apertures, (using surgical tape which is soft to the touch, causes no irritation to the skin and does not pull fur out upon removal) leaving it in position for seven days. This, in effect, stopped the eyes from opening for a further week, and we found that we had no eye problems at all.

At 2½ — 3 weeks, the kittens will attempt to wash themselves and also take an active interest in their surroundings. This, then, is the time to begin to lower the heat temperature within the nursery. Leaving the background heat of 20°C. (the wall heater) still functioning, use extra bedding on top of the 'Pet Pad' in the bed area. This will slowly lower the heat being provided. By the end of the week, the 'Pet Pad' can be disconnected. Now is also the time to bring in a queen who will be prepared to mother the kittens. If there are other 'normal' litters in the home, one can slowly add the prem. infants amongst them, and will find they are rarely, if ever, rejected by adults and kittens alike.

Your kittens are now the same as the others. They go on the same diet, are vaccinated at the same ages, do the same things through play that the others do. The only difference is that they will be smaller in size, but they will not take long in catching up.

One of our premature kittens has remained with us and is now 18 months old. We have studied him very carefully throughout this entire period and have arrived at the following conclusions:

- 1) His overall growth rate has not reached that of a 'normal' kitten. He is approximately 1-1½" shorter in height off the floor than others of his same breed, age and sex.
- 2) He prefers human companionship over feline, possibly due to his having been handraised by humans.
- 3) He is not 'cat-like' in his attitudes. . . preferring to be as 'human' as he can, even to indulging in even more 'conversation' than does the 'normal' kitten.
- 4) As a working male, his performance equals that of the normally born male.

Conclusion: It is perfectly satisfactory to raise and keep entire the premature kitten as long as one is prepared to provide the immense amount of human contact the feline has become accustomed to. DO NOT expect a normal growth rate. Set a reasonable limit for your feline, show and breeding wise, and do not allow this set limit to be over-reached. Be aware that your feline's thinking is rather different to that of the 'normal' born, due to his extended contact with humans.

Problems: Becoming so attached to the premature infants that they are treated more as human than feline. . .

Being weaker than other kittens, they are highly susceptible to any virus, fungus or bacteria that may be around them. . . Making oneself 'tough' enough to refuse visitors the chance to see the kittens. . . Working out a satisfactory 'shift' system that enables the kittens to receive 24-hour a day care.

Rewards: Successfully raising a most difficult litter. . . Even if some cannot be saved, each one raised is a success story in itself.

Finding that rather special 'extra' with the premature infants that is not often found with those whose lives begin with less of a struggle.

Complete and utter exhaustion, mentally and physically, but intense satisfaction.

Finally: If you receive into your care a premature litter of kittens, do not panic. . . just go ahead slowly but surely, determined to win the battle for them all.

Editor's Note: When offering an 'orphan' to a mother cat, rub the baby's body in her bedding, or in her fur, so that it carries her smell, then present the baby rear end first. I was given this advice years ago, with the comment: 'There is something about a defenceless baby's bottom that no mother cat can resist'.

Notes on products mentioned above: The 'Kitten Pet Pad' has a quality, safe wiring system, and is completely covered with a vinyl covering. Washable, it throws out a steady heat for kittens, ailing cats or any other animal requiring constant heat. Measurements: Length - 20", Width 13½ inches. Can be purchased from pet shops and veterinarians. A commercially sold item costing from between $26 to $33 NZ dollars.

'Complan' is made by Glaxo New Zealand Limited. A medically proven formula which contains all body needs for complete nourishment. A blend of dried wholemilk powder, sodium caseinate, maltodextrin, dried skim milk powder, maize oil, flavours, cane sugar, minerals and vitamins.

'Lactol'. A commercial product from Great Britain. A milk food scientifically formulated as a replacement or a supplement for kittens. Also available in meal form (for weaning kittens) and in drop (tablet) form. (Similar to Borden's Kitten Weaning Formula and KMR, Ed.)

You've entered your cats in the big show. You crawl out of bed at an unprintable hour of the morning, load all the cats and supplies and yourself into a cold car, drive for hours through the slow dawn and arrive at the show hall still yawning and desperate for a cup of coffee. You've brought along all your best cat photos, your business cards, your latest litter of kittens. You're really ready; you're going to convince everyone who walks through the gate that cats are the most wonderful creatures in the world, and that your cats are the epitome of all catness. And you'll sell all your kittens to good homes.

Eight hours later, you've given out two business cards. A total of six people has walked through the gate. Ninety-five per cent of the people you've seen today at the show are old buddies who know the nicknames and favorite foods of all your cats, and you have the feeling your kittens are going to grow old at your house.

Most of us have been to a show like this. The problem is publicity; nobody knew about the show. It wasn't advertised, the show hall wasn't marked, it might as well have taken place inside a top secret hideout in the dark of night. A poorly advertised show is bad for the club, which doesn't get the admission fees; it's bad for the breeder, who doesn't sell any kittens; and it's bad for the fancy, which doesn't gain any new converts. It probably wasn't the club's idea to neglect publicity totally, but they may not have known how to get a good gate.

Good publicity is not difficult or expensive, but it does take time and effort. One club member can do it alone, but it may be better to have two people sharing the load. The more types of coverage the publicity chairman can achieve, the better. People will be more likely to remember your show and come to it if they hear about it, read about it, and see it advertised several times in the week or two preceding the show. Here are some tips for getting good coverage.

Posters — These are the most commonly used advertising tools for cat shows. They're good — if you can get them put up where they will be seen. The larger and more colorful they are, the better. If your club can't afford full-color posters, you can draw them or have them printed on colored paper. Club members can add colorful accents by hand with felt-tipped markers. Include a large drawing or photo of a cat. Print prominently the time, date(s), and location of the show; how many breeds of cats the spectator can expect to see; admission prices, and a phone number to call for more information. Posters should be distributed three or four weeks before the show. Get as many out as you possibly can. Concentrate on shopping centers, areas with a lot of pedestrian traffic, pet shops, veterinarians' offices, schools, grocery stores, and motels. Ask club members to display the posters in the back windows of their cars.

Newspapers and magazines — Your phone directory's yellow pages will have a list of all the newspapers and magazines published in your area. Prepare a press release for these publications. Your opening paragraph should include time, date(s), location, and number of cats and breeds expected. In the next paragraph or two, tell a little about some of the breeds, or what goes on at a show, or local cats which have won regional or national awards. If your association judges household pets, be sure to include that information. Many people can identify best with the mixed-breed cats just like they have at home. Your last paragraph should list a number which the reader can call for more information.

Before you send out press releases, phone each newspaper and local magazine. Ask for the current events or community news editor. Describe the show and ask where you should send the press release. Get a specific name, if possible. Then ask whether the publication would like to do a feature article on cats. You can offer to bring local feline celebrities or unusual breeds to the office for photos and a writeup. If the publication isn't willing to do a story, ask if you can send a photo along with your press release. Remember to use clear black and white photos, and caption the photos. Include the name, breed, color, and title(s) or awards won by the cat in each photo.

Send your press releases about a month (2 months for magazines) before the show. Then call the editor to whom you addressed each release about a week and a half or two weeks before the show, and ask when the item will be printed.

Radio Stations — Most towns big enough to host a cat show have several radio stations. Your yellow pages will list local stations and may list non-local ones which broadcast in your area. Prepare a press release for them, like the newspaper release, but aimed at a listening audience. Then call each station. Ask to talk to the programming director, and tell him or her about the show. Again, get the name of a specific person to whom you should address your release. Send the releases about three weeks before the show. Ask each station to air the release several times daily, particularly during the week prior to the show.

Even though radio public service announcements are valuable, the most effective method of radio advertising for a cat show is a radio contest or competition. This type of publicity takes a lot of work and coordination, but it really pays off in gate. Our club has, for two different shows, called all the local stations and asked them whether they would like to sponsor a household pet in the show. When a station agrees to sponsor a cat, we let them choose from a list of available household pets. In our club, these are usually cats who are looking for homes. (At our last show, every cat so sponsored was adopted.)

The station pays no entry fee and does not even have to provide an agent for the cat, though we encourage disc jockeys and other station personnel to put in an appearance at the show. The club provides a list of sponsored cats and their sponsoring stations to each participating station. The disc jockeys talk about their cats on the air and may challenge other stations' cats to the "show-down". At the show, the radio cats are benched together and prominently labeled, so spectators may locate and cheer on their favorite station's entry. The cats are judged in the regular household pet class, then, at the end of the show, they are judged separately against each other and a special "radio cat" trophy is awarded to the winning cat's sponsoring station.

We have found the radio cat contest to be quite successful. The one thing it does require is time. You need to contact radio stations at least three months in advance. You need to be persuasive — radio stations are approached for this kind of advertising scheme frequently and can't give air time to everyone who asks for it. You need to stay in close contact with the station, in order to answer questions and provide information.

One final radio advertising method which can be very effective is to convince a station to broadcast from

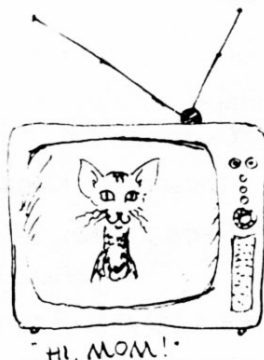

With 32 active and 18 supporting members, the East of Eden Cat Fanciers' Club is among the largest cat clubs on the West Coast. The members put on two shows a year under the auspices of The International Cat Association, Inc.

The club is active in its support of various charitable organizations through raffles, rummage sales, and donations. Club members own a total of 17 breeds of cats, plus many outstanding household pets. Each year, several members' purebreds and household pets receive Regional and National Awards.

the show hall on the day of the show. Our club hasn't had a show hall large enough to allow for a broadcasting booth, but if you have the room for it, by all means talk a station into doing a radio broadcast from your show hall.

Television Stations — An often neglected advertising medium for cat shows is television. Many local TV stations (within a 100 mile radius) have daytime talk shows or evening local news programs. Call all the local stations and ask for the program director, the local news director, or — if you know specific names — the talk show host.

You will need to call at least three months in advance to be best assured of a time slot on these popular shows. They book very early. Tell your contact about the cat show and about your local feline celebrities or unusual breeds. Ask whether you can put some of these cats on the air. When you get a commitment, send a follow-up letter or make a follow-up phone call detailing who will appear on the show, both human and feline. Include the cats' names, breeds, and awards.

When you approach your club for volunteers to appear on the show, remember that the people and the cats must be at ease in front of a large audience. The cats will probably be held in laps and should be capable of remaining quiet. The people who handle the cats don't holdouts may be attracted by banners or marquee signs telling about the show. If your show hall has a marquee, arrange to have your show advertised as soon as you book the show hall. Get a commitment in writing if you can. Then, check to make sure the information gets on the marquee at the agreed time. You can also check with local motels near the show hall and ask them if they will advertise the show. Your club may even want to make a street banner to display over a main thoroughfare during the week before the show.

If your club holds its show regularly at the same place and approximately the same date each year, you can develop quite a group of "regulars" who come to see the show every year.

If you can manage even half the publicity schemes above, you will attract a gate to your show. Added publicity makes that gate bigger and bigger. One thing is certain: you simply cannot depend on word of mouth and a few small posters to advertise your show. If you want better income from admissions, more public awareness of the cat fancy, more kitten sales, and more satisfied exhibitors who will return to your show next year, plan now to publicize your show as widely as you can.

NOTEBOOK

by A. David Bandy

I shall continue with the discussion of fleas and how to control them. We can deal with an organism if we have a better understanding of its characteristics and life cycle.

Fleas are small wingless insects that, in the adult form, feed on warm blooded organisms (birds and mammals). Several species are very annoying because of their bites, a few serve as carriers for disease organisms, a few serve as the intermediate host for certain tapeworms, and a few tunnel into the skin of Man and other animals.

Fleas are insects that generally undergo a complete metamorphosis. The egg is laid off the animal in the dirt outside, or in the rugs or cracks in the floor inside. The eggs hatch into the larvae that resemble small worms and feed on organic debris found around it. Eventually the flea larva will spin a silken cocoon where it completely rearranges its body structure as a pupa and emerges as an adult.

Adult fleas are designed to jump; but they seldom can jump higher than 12 inches. They have a natural inclination to feed on an animal, then return to the lowest surface in its environment. This is often why cats kept in the higher cages in a cattery, without being permitted to run out on the floor of the room occasionally, will have few fleas.

Both sexes of fleas feed on the host. But mature female fleas are often much larger than the males. There are two main types of mouth parts in fleas that attack warmblooded animals. Fleas with sucking mouth parts will often put their mouth parts in their host and remain stubbornly attached. An example is the small fleas, commonly called stick tights, that attach to a cat's ears and head. Most fleas that pet owners have to deal with have chewing mouth parts. They have saw like mouth parts which they use to cut the host's skin, then they lap up the blood as it flows out the opening. An animal with fleas will have the flea feces of dried blood material in their coats. These dissolve in water to produce a reddish solution.

The main disease carried by fleas is bubonic plague. This disease has been eradicated in most developed areas in the USA. It has been known as The Black Death and literally destroyed whole cities in the past, carried by fleas or rats. Today, in mountainous areas in California and Arizona, many rodents have fleas that carry the plague organism. It does not affect rodents generally. The problems occur when someone traps a rodent from these areas or picks up a dead or sick rodent and is then bitten by fleas that are on the animal. One can avoid contact with these animals and the rocks in which they live and not have any problems.

The flea also serves as an intermediate host for a dog tapeworm and a rat tapeworm. These tapeworms can infest man, dogs, cats, or rats which serve as primary hosts. Infection of the primary host usually occurs after they ingest a flea harboring the intermediate stage of the tapeworm.

I hope this will better familiarize you with fleas. They really are not as selective of their hosts as one might imagine if they are hungry. They can live for months without a meal, and the first warm blooded animal that happens by will often satisfy them. But there is also an interesting aspect that should further be researched in this area. Some people are readily attacked by hungry fleas while others are never bothered by them. Therefore, there must be elements in some animals' physiology that repel fleas. Perhaps these could be identified and bred into our pets.

There has been much discussion on the new disqualification introduced to the Persian standard: Deformity of the skull resulting in an asymmetrical face and/or head.

I feel that it is the responsibility of the breeders to show only those specimens that are of superior quality. Crooked heads and faces have existed in our stock of many breeds for years. Almost any animal, if you examine it closely enough, will have imbalances or imperfections. Sometimes this will show up in a young animal but will even out and disappear as it grows older. But it may be that the fancy has become polarized by some exhibits that have been campaigned the past few years that have gross head deformities.

But beauty and balance is in the eye of the beholder. Some people can see imbalances while others do not notice them. What should be considered unshowable and what should be considered passable for show. . . Please let me hear from you on this and any other subject you would like to discuss.
